Haldeman: I Heard Nixon Tapes

. . . Dean's Assertions That Nixon Knew Said Unsupported

WASHINGTON (AP) — H. R. Haldeman, once President Nixon's closest aide, said Monday he had listened to tape recordings of two crucial meetings in the White House and that they do not support assertions by John W. Dean III that the President knew of the Watergate cover-up.

Haldeman, one of the three or four people in the White House who knew that the Nixon recording devices existed, said he heard the March 21 recording last April while he was still chief of staff and the Sept. 15 tape in the early part of July.

"I listened to the March 21 tape in my office at the White House and I listened to the Sept. 15 tape in my residence," Haldeman said. He said he made notes.

Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., asked who was there when Haldeman played the Sept. 15 tape in his home.

"No one," said Haldeman.

"Who was present when you played the March 21 tape?"

"Certainly Mr. Dean did not advise him of it at the Sept. 15 meeting, said Haldeman, formerly Nixon's chief of staff, in a lengthy opening statement read to the Senate Watergate committee. Dean has said remarks the President made at a meeting in September 1972 indicated to him that Nixon was aware of the cover-up.

Haldeman said he also listened to the tape of a meeting last March 21, which Dean said was the occasion when he told Nixon the entire Watergate story.

Haldeman said Dean gave Nixon a rundown on the break-in and said no one from the White House was involved, then told Nixon about funds paid out to defenants for their lawyers and families.

Dean also reported on a blackmail threat from defendant E. Howard Hunt and said it could cost $1 million.

Haldeman's disclosure that he had heard the tapes of the two meetings was the first indication that anyone but the President has heard a replay. The recordings, made automatically in the President's office, have been the subject of a constitutional argument yet to be resolved by the courts.

Haldeman said he knew of no transcript made of the tapes that he listened to the March 21 tape in his White House office and to the Sept. 15 tape in his home.

Later in the day, deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren acknowledged that two other White House staffers had also heard some tapes.

He said Stephen V. Bull, a special assistant to the President, had listened to a tape of a March 14 Nixon-Dean meeting and that J. Fred buzhardt, the new White House counsel, heard a recording of a March 20 telephone call between the President and Dean.

"Were you authorized by the President to hear these tapes?" asked Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn.

"Yes," said Haldeman. "I heard them at the President's authority and for the purpose of reporting their contents to the President."

Nixon, in refusing to release the tapes to the Senate panel or special Watergate prosecutor, said their contents might be subject to misinterpretation, but insisted they show him innocent.

Dean had said that on Supt. 15, 1972, when indictments were returned against the seven Watergate conspirators, the President congratulated him on doing a good job. Dean said he took this to mean the President was praising him for keeping White House personnel out of the indictments and thus concluded Nixon knew of cover-up efforts.

"There was no mood of exuberance or excitement on the President's part at the time the indictments were brought down," Haldeman said.

Haldeman said Dean assured the President that "nothing would come out to surprise us . . . the President did at that point commend Dean for his handling of the Watergate matter."

Haldeman added: "I totally disagree with the conclusion that the President was aware of any type of cover-up and certainly Mr. Dean did not advise him of it as the Sept. 15 meeting."

Haldeman said in the portion of the March 21 meeting he attended the subject matter discussed were the grand jury, the Senate committee executive privilege and also of Ehrlichman's theory that everybody should go to the grand jury without immunity from prosecution.

Dean, Haldeman said, was insistent that White House personnel be permitted to testify before the grand jury only under immunity from prosecution.

Haldeman echoed earlier testimony that Nixon felt Haldeman and Ehrlichman were spending too much time on Watergate in February and directed Dean to take over.

"I have the feeling that during this period the President was gradually getting more of a feel of the possibility that there might be some problems involved in the Watergate matter that he had not even dreamed of-and that led to the meeting of March 21 in which John Dean was going to give the President the full story," Haldeman said.

The former chief of staff said Dean was told at a March 22 meeting to prepare a full written report. Dean denied he was ever given such an order; that the President sent him and his wife to Camp David., to think things over.

"Through this period of time, I still had full confidence in John Dean and I think the President did," Haldeman said. "He had not in any way hit himself except on the indirect point that there was a possible circumstantial chain of evidence leading to a charge of obstruction of justice . . ."

But Haldeman said that Dean started dropping indications then that Jeb Stuart Magruder and possibly John N. Mitchell had serious legal problems.

At Camp David, according to all accounts, Dean was not able to produce a report for Nixon.

"By the 30th (of March) Dean had not delivered any report," Haldeman said "and the President stopped dealing with Dean. In effect he had stopped dealing with him after the 23rd."

Board Proposes 7.5% Pay Boost

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

More than $200,000 was tentatively cut from Lancaster County departmental salaries Monday with the majority of the board recommending a 7.5% across the board increase in each department's salary budget over last years' expenditures.

After deleting $70,000 from the assessor's budget, the total of salary requests of 15 department heads was $2,021,491 which tentatively was cut to $1,618,554 by the board Monday.

The $1,618,554 figure reflects the flat 7.5% increase for all departments and excludes the $166,500 in salaries of elected officials which are set every four years.

However, board members Jan Gauger and Robert Colin agreed that the increases in salaries for the offices of county attorney and public defender and the sheriff's classified employes should possibly be considered on a different basis since professional people are involved.

Worked With Accountant

After working Saturday with an accountant on the budget requests by department heads, Mrs. Gauger and Colin discovered that the department heads, who had indicated they were asking for about a 6% to 8% increase, were actually seeking about a 22.5% increase in their salary budgets over last year's expenditures.

However, in meeting with each department head Monday, the board learned that the percentage figures they had were somewhat misleading in that some of the requests included additional staff, provisions for part-time and overtime help and provisions for some salaries that were formally paid by federal funds.

The commissioners then proceeded to refigure the departmental salary budgets taking into consideration such factors prior to applying the 7.5% figure total increase.

Mrs. Gauger and Colin said they were recommending that each department be allowed the 7.5% increase with a recommendation that each employe be paid a minimum of a 5.5% cost-of-living increase and the remaining 2% left to the discretion of the department head for distribution.

However, Commissioner Kenneth Bourne, who said he was not informed that the other two commissioners were going to meet together Saturday with an accountant, made little comment during Monday's discussions.

Tentative Deduction

The majority of the board tentatively deducted $70,000 from the budget of Lancaster County Assessor Fritz Meyer who had included that amount for updating the reappraisal including provisions for a multiple regression system.

However, Mrs. Gauger said people she had talked with strongly recommended not going into multiple regression system.

Meyer, who took issue with the board's percentage figure of salary increase in his department, said he would withdraw the $70,000 request "because it seems to me you think you can do it better than I can but it's not going to be under my supervision."

Saying that Mrs. Gauger has "continually harassed my operation," Meyer said that "she's trying to tell me I don't know how to run my office."

Not 'Intended'

Mrs. Gauger, in response, said that was merely Meyer's interpretation and that was not what she had "intended."

In response to the majority of the board's explanation of its recommendation on the 7.5% and 5.5%, Meyer said: "I'll make my own allotments."

Also taking issue with the percentage recommendations, County Atty. Paul Douglas said that if the board allows only a percentage increase on salaries of his deputies that it will "end up costing the county money."

He said the county was going to have real problems "if you start screwing up with these deputies."

Citing an example of the county's losing the bookkeeper at Lancaster Manor who was making $500 per month and being forced to pay the new bookkeeper $700 per month, Douglas said that once you lose someone it usually costs more to hire a replacement.

The commissioners agreed that perhaps the budgets of county attorney and public defender would have to be considered on a different basis than the others since the people involved are professional people and the county must compete salary-wise with what attorneys are making in comparable positions.

Other county officials explained to the board what their salary request breakdowns were and what provisions were made for additional help.

2 More Deputies

Sheriff Merle Karnopp noted that his requests reflect salaries for two additional deputies plus both increases in the base pay in his office classification system as well as individual pay raises.

He said he had been trying to get his deputies up with city police officers but they're "still behind."

Colin, agreeing that Karnopp was one of the few officials who had been making attempts to get his salary scales up where they should be, said he felt perhaps those salaries would have to be considered separately from other county employes.

2% Plus $38,000

The board also tentatively agreed to permit the county engineer's office a flat 2% increase plus $38,000 for new positions in its salary budget.

Deputy Engineer Henry Graff said this would be satisfactory since that office had received an 8% increase during this last year which employes of other county offices hadn't been given.

This was allowed in accordance with promises to field workmen in an effort to prevent the office unionizing.

However, Graff noted that office staff had also been given the increase at that time and felt that it would be unfair to allow them the 5.5% raise that other county employes would receive which would place the employes of that office at between 13% and 15%.

Shopping Center Placed On Pending

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

The proposed 27th and Old Cheney Rd. shopping center met the same fate Monday at the hands of city lawmakers accorded to two previous shopping center applications.

The City Council placed on pending Ericson Development Corp.'s proposal to build the $30 million development, which would be anchored by Brandeis and Miller and Paine.

But, council action on the request hinged on Councilman Bob Sikyta's insistence that a county-wide economic base study be completed in 90 days. That study will, among other things, show the need for any additonal shopping centers in Lincoln.

To Be Fair

Sikyta commented that to be fair to the developer the council should place Ericson's application on pending. "At the present time, it looks like it wouldn't pass."

Councilman Max Denney questioned why the city was conducting an economic base study when the Goals and Policies report only recommended that the developer need prove an economic justification exists for this development.

Councilman Steve Cook replied it seemed prudent for the developer to submit his own study, but emphasized that the city also needs that information to up date the Comprehenive Plan.

What council will do at the end of that three-month period still is undecided.

Denney suggested that the council take action on all three shopping center plans at one stroke. Sikyta stressed the need to judge "each one on its own merits."

Also in its marathon 4½-hour night meeting, city lawmakers adopted the revised controversial mobile home ordinance.

On a split 4 to 2 vote the council included the occupancy inspection and decal as a new requirement.

Councilmen Dick Baker and John Robinson wanted to delete that requirement — as did numbers of mobile home operators and owners who filled the council chambers last week protesting the ordinance in general and the decal regulation in particular.

Cook said, "I don't think we're imposing something on these people," adding that if the decal section were removed, the council would be cutting the heart out of the ordinance.

The existing charge for water and sewer hook-up is $3. The occupancy decal permit would be an additional $5 charge.

ASAS Names Dr. Frank Baker President

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Dr. Frank Baker, head of the NU Department of Animal Science, was named president of the American Society of Animal Science (ASAS) Monday.

Baker, who moved up from vice president, has been a member of the association since 1952 and has presented a number of scientific papers to the group.

ASAS members include university scientists as well as animal scientists in private industry. There are 3,500 members in the organization.

Another NU staff member, Dr. Paul Guyer, was honored at the awards banquet Monday evening. He was presented the American Society of Animal science extension award.

Major Contribution

As a writer, Guyer has contributed more than 125 papers to extension and research literature. He has also contriubted to the education of thousands of 4-H members through years of work with young farmers.

The society's highest award went to Dr. Albert M. Pearson of Michigan State University. Pearson was given the F. B. Morrison award for outstanding research, an honor that includes a $2,000 cash award.

Dr. Harold D. Hafs, also of Michigan State, recieved the ASAS animal physiology and endocrinology award which includes $1,000 from the American Cyanamid Company.

The distinguished teacher award went to Dr. Don L. Good, head of the animal science department at Kansas State University. Good has served as a livestock judge throughout the U.S. and Canada. His award included $1,000 from Swift and Company.

The American feed manufacturers award went to Dr. David H. Baker of the University of Illinois and also included $1,000 in cash.

Cartwright Wins Award

Texas A & M geneticist Dr. T. C. Cartwright collected a check for $1,000 and the ASAS animal breeding and genetics award.

The 1973 meats award winner was Dr. Darrel E. Goll of Iowa State University who collected his $1,000 from Eli Lilly and Co.

Dr. Clarence Ammerman of the University of Florida recieved $1,000 for mineral research from the Salt Institute.

Dr. Lowell Wilson recieved the animal management award with a $1,000 check from Merck and Company.

Dr. Baker

Dr. Guyer

Seven animal scientists were named honorary fellows in recognition of distinguished service to the livestock industry. Several representatives of the press and livestock production groups also were presented certificates of appreciation.

More than 3,500 scientists are spending the week in Nebraska visiting the various experiment stations, the Sandhills and the Meat Animal Research Center at Clay Center.

Some 500 scientific papers dealing with every aspect of livestock health and management are to be presented during the conference.

Gov. J. James Exon told the conferees at the noon public relations luncheon that they should not be hesitant to ask their governors and legislators for additional funds for research because "agriculture needs to expand production in this country to save the dollar, change the balance of trade and feed the world."

Exon discounted fears of overproduction of meat animals saying, "No longer are the people of the world willing to settle for a series of seven bowls of cereal for sustinance. They want red meat and it is the leadership you people provide that will make that meat supply possible."

Campaign Funds Bill OKd

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spurred on by Watergate, the Senate Monday passed, 82 to 8, a bill that would sharply limit campaign contributions and expenditures in federal elections.

However, the legislation faces slow going at best in the House. Some senators said it had been so weighted down by restrictions on campaign financing that it may sink in the House.

The bill, which would amend a 1971 campaign financing disclosure law, would establish severe penalties for anyone misusing campaign funds and would create an independent, bipartisan commission to enforce the law.

The seven-member commission would have authority to initiate criminal prosecutions or to levy civil penalties of up to $10,000 against violaters.

Other major provisions of the bill would:

—Make it a federal crime to embezzle campaign funds or convert them to one's personal use or to use them to defrav the the Watergate bugging defendants. Penalities under this and other parts of the bill would range up to 10 years in prison and fines of $25,000.

—Bar individuals from contributing more than $3,000 to the campaign of a candidate for president or Congress.

—Place a ceiling of $25,000 on the amount an individual could contribute to the campaigns of all candidates for federal office in a year.

—Prohibit cash contributions of more than $50. Contributions above that amount would have to be by check or other written instrument.

—Prohibit anyone from spending more than $1,000 on a federal election campaign without the authorization of one of the candidates.

—Limit campaign spending by congressional and presidential candidates to 10 cents times the voting age population in primaries and 15 cents in general elections. On the basis of the latest population figures, this would restrict presidential candidates to expenditures of $13.9 million in primaries and $20.8 million in general elections.

Drug Victims Get Cash

LONDON (AP) — After a 12-year legal battle, a British court has awarded $50 million to children born deformed because their mothers took the drug thalidomide.

Justice Geoffrey Lane of the High Court Monday ordered Distillers Co., a huge whisky and chemical firm that marketed the drug in Britain, to pay the sum to 443 British victims.

About $15 million will be paid immediately, the court said, while the remainder will be placed in a trust fund to provide for the victims, many of whom never will be able to hold a job.

Thalidomide, developed by a German firm, was taken by hundreds of pregnant women in Britain between 1958 and 1961 as a tranquilizing agent. Many of their children were born with physical defects, including some without arms or legs.

Distribution of the award will be determined by a legal and medical panel and approved bv the court.

Skylab Space Walk Postponed By Illness

World News

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Slowed by illness and far behind schedule, the Skylab astronauts Monday postponed for a second time a planned space walk. Officials said they are at least a whole day behind the plan of their marathon mission.

"It seems to me that there is no way we can pull off an EVA (extra vehicular activity or space walk) the day after tomorrow," Skylab commander Alan L. Bean said Monday afternoon. "But the day after that it's possible."

Bean and his crewmates, Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma, have been hobbled by the stomach-churning effects of motion sickness since shortly after their record 59-day mission started on Saturday.

The illness has caused them to fall at least one day behind in setting up housekeeping in the space station, orbiting 271 miles above the earth.

"I think we've just got to have time to get the thing (the space station) in shipshape," said Bean. "When we do, we can go from there."

Bean said they were having problems getting the space station activated because some equipment was not working properly. Also, he said, some storage items were out of place aboard the orbiting laboratory, which was occupied for 28 days last month by the Skylab 1 crew.

"It just takes a little bit longer to get going in a used spacecraft than it does when everything is in its proper place," said Bean.

Bean said the astronauts spent several hours Monday working on unplanned plumbing problems that developed.

The astronauts were originally scheduled to complete activation on Monday and conduct a space walk on Tuesday. The space walk was first postponed to Wednesday and Bean then moved it to Thursday.

A space physician, Dr. Royce Hawkins, said the motion sickness problem "looks better," although all three were still experiencing some varying degrees of symptoms.

"I feel quite confident that what we're seeing is a marked improvement," he added.

Dr. Hawkins said he did not expect the ailment to cause the record 59-day mission to be shortened. He said when their bodies adjust to weightlessness, the astronauts' illness should end.

"I feel confident that they're going to make the adjustment and go right on into the rest of the mission," he said.

The astronauts said the illness came and went, and was controlled to some degree by medication. But Bean said they had to work slowly and cautiously to avoid upsetting their already queasy stomachs.

Prehistoric Tool Claim Disputed

©The New York Times

New York — A Texas geology professor has expressed serious doubts regarding claims of the late Louis S. B. Leakey and other persons that man was making stone tools in California before the last ice age.

In 1968 Leakey and his coworkers had identified 200 pieces of chert or chalcedony — two forms of hard, or flintlike rock — from a site in the foothills of the Calico Mountains of California as being manmade. Several hundred more specimens were suspected as having been worked, in part because of their proximity to the others.

The skeptical analysis is by Dr. Vance Haynes of Southern Methodist University in Dallas. For several years he has questioned the finds and his views have been published as the lead article in the current issue of science, organ of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The formation with which the stones are associated lies near and beneath a surface deposit of artifacts that are clearly manmade and of more recent origin. However, the deeper layer, Haynes believes, is at least 100,000 years old.

A 1968 report to Science, signed by Leakey, Ruth De Ette Simpson and Thomas Clements, set forth their arguments in favor of human action. Leakey, noted for his excavations of humanoid remains in Africa, had chosen the excavation site, which was dug under the direction of Miss Simpson of the San Bernardino Museum in Bloomington, Calif. Clements was with the University of Southern California.

Some of the specimens from this dig were "unquestionably" the result of human activity, they said. The stones in question, they added, seemed to have been chosen as particularly well suited for such work and were not found in the same abundance in nearby test holes.

Australian Chief Sees Further Disagreements

©The New York Times

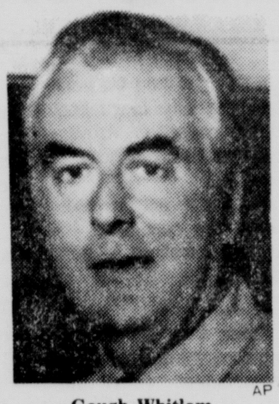
Washington — After meeting for more than an hour with President Nixon, Prime Minister Gough Whitlam of Australia said Monday that his Labor Party government wished to remain a friend of the United States, but had "independent interests" that could lead to further disagreements with Washington.

The 57-year-old Australian leader, who has striven to end Australia's dependence on the United States in foreign affairs, sought to smooth over some of the publicized differences between Washington and Canberra.

But the thrust of his remarks were that "we are not a satellite of any country."

"We are a friend and a partner of the United States, particularly in the Pacific: But with independent interests of our own," Whitlam said.

Whitlam virtually had to invite himself to the White House. After seeking in vain for an invitation to Washington, he announced some time ago that he would stop here on his way to a commonwealth leaders' meeting in Ottawa. Finally, on the urging of the State Department, the White House announced that Nixon would receive him.



AP

Gough Whitlam

Nixon was reportedly irked by Whitlam's open criticism of the bombing of Hanoi last December and other actions taken in the first weeks of Whitlam's government which seemed to have an anti-American coloration.

In a speech to the National Press Club, Whitlam said that Australia's relations with the United States "are very important but again only one aspect of our interests and obligations in our region and around the world.

"Naturally there will be differences in approach to several international questions between Australia and the United States," he said. "I believe, however, we should explore constructively the wide areas of agreement which unite us rather than seek to emphasize those few matters on which we are divided or take a different approach towards the same basic end."

Whitlam spent an hour with Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's national security adviser, Monday morning before meeting with the President. The Australian leader said they did not discuss any disagreements during their talk.

EPA Delays Auto Deadline On Pollution Level Compliance

Washington (UPI) — The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Monday gave the big three auto makers until 1977 to turn out cars that will meet full pollution standards — the second such delay granted this year.

Robert W. Fri, acting EPA administrator, said the extension for emissions of nitrogen oxides — which he said would not pose "a significant problem" with respect to air quality — was granted the automakers because the technology would not be available for the companies to produce 1976 model cars that would meet the federal standards for nitrogen oxides.

In April, the EPA granted a similar one year delay — to 1976 — on carbon monoxide and hydrocarbon standards for 1975 model cars.

The 1970 Clean Air Act originally required that 1976 cars give off 90% less nitrogen oxides and other pollutants. Congress allowed the EPA to suspend that deadline for one year if the automobile companies did not have the technology to meet the deadline.

As a result Fri approved the request of General Motors, Ford and Chrysler to put off the nitrogen oxide standard for one year, to 1977.

At the same time, FRI did say 1976 model cars would have to meet an interim standard for nitrogen oxide pollution of 2.0 grams per mile.

Had Fri not granted the extension, the engines would have been forced to emit 0.4 grams per mile. The current federal standard is 3.1 grams per mile.

Fri told a news conference: "No one — manufacturer or supplier or anyone else — presented evidence at our hearing that the standard could be met in 1976. . . My technical staff independently confirms this conclusion.

To meet the temporary 1976 standard, Fri said, probably would require automobile companies to use an improved Exhaust Gas Recirculation (EGR) system.

With that system — and others designed to control other pollutants — it may be possible to turn out cars in 1976 and later that will use the same amount of gasoline as cars turned before 1968 when pollution controls were first imposed on cars.

Cars turned out for the current model year have been using considerably more gasoline because of antipollution requirements.

Government Contractor Paid Senator's Vacation

(c) Washington Star-News

Washington — Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, a Georgia Democrat considered one of the most influential members of the Senate, was flown to the Caribbean for a mid-winter vacation early this year by a major government contractor.

Handled Arrangements

According to the source, Rockwell, a major defense and aerospace contractor, arranged the flights on its executive jets to and from Bimini to meet the scheduling requirements of individual members of congress, and handled all arrangements for the legislators' stay on the island.

Bahamian government officials have confirmed the identity of two of the six passengers on the Feb. 9 plane — Talmadge and R. J. (Doc) Watson, an official in Rockwell's Washington office who is reported to have acted as host to the legislators.

Talmadge, one of the seven Senators on the Senate committee investigating the Watergate scandal, also serves on the select committee on standards and conduct, the Senate's "ethics" committee established to prevent illegal or improper activities on the part of Senate members and their staffs.

Talmadge has repeatedly refused to discuss the Bimini matter. Members of the Senator's staff offered only terse "no comment" in response to an early query about the trip.

Request Unanswered

The Senator, approached about the matter earlier this month, said: "I'll talk about it when I get some time." A request that Talmadge schedule time to discuss the issue has gone unanswered for more than 10 days.

First elected to the Senate in 1956, Talmadge exercises considerable behind-the-scenes power and is highly respected by his colleagues.

Talmadge's principal base of power is his chairmanship of the Senate agriculture committee, but he also is the ranking Democrat on the finance committee.

He is not, however, a member of the armed services or aeronautical and space sciences committees, the two panels of principal concern to the firm which acted as host on the trip.

Rockwell Refuses Too

Rockwell, like Talmadge, refuses to provide any information about the trip or about reports that other senior members of both houses of Congress were flown to the Caribbean.

During fiscal 1972, Rockwell's $175.1 million in National Aeronautics and Space Administration contracts made the company NASA's third-largest outside contractor. During the same period, Rockwell was the Defense Department's ninth-largest contractor, with $702.8 million in Pentagon contracts.

According to the company's current annual report, 50% of its $2.36 billion in gross sales during the 1972 fiscal year were made to the federal government.

Rockwell is the prime contractor on two of the most costly and controversial space and defense projects now underway — NASA's space shuttle and the Air Force's B-1 bomber.

Hail, Hail, The Hail's All Here . . .

Residents of Rochester, Minn., weren't exactly singing as hail the size of golf balls fell on the city, drifting into six inch deep piles. Winds were clocked as high as 80 miles per hour in nearby Wabasha. Fog was also evident due to the rapid temperature change during the day.

13-Ship Convoy Nearing Phnom Penh

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — A 13-ship supply convoy edged up the Mekong River toward the Cambodian capital Monday, covered by an umbrella of American warplanes.

A government communique said the convoy of seven oil tankers, four freighters and two tugboats was within 24 miles of Phnom Penh at nightfall as it steamed along the gantlet of Communist-held territory. The communique made no mention of damage to the ships and port authorities refused to say if there had been any losses.

Convoys have gotten through previously, but have suffered heavy losses in trying to reach the capital.

Phnom Penh's three main supply routes — the Mekong River, Highway 4 to the port of Kompong Som on the Gulf of Thailand and Highway 5 to northern Battambang Province and the Thai border — have remained open for nearly one month.

The government has seized the moment to desperately push supplies into the capital.

After the Aug. 15 cutoff of American bombing in Cambodia, military authorities anticipate it will be increasingly difficult to keep the routes free — despite a Cambodian command announcement last week that the insurgents had abandoned their strategy of strangling the city in favor of a frontal assault.

House Rejects Pay Hikes

©The New York Times

Washington — The House slammed the door Monday on a possible immediate pay raise for members of Congress.

As a result, annual pay for members of Congress will continue at $42,500 until President Nixon, acting on recommendations of an independent commission, sets a new pay level next January.

The Senate had previously voted unanimously to speed up the process by requiring the President to submit his pay recommendations to Congress by Aug. 31, instead of next January as required under present law.

But the House, prodded by Republican economizers, refused to even consider such a speedup. Instead, it rejected, by a vote of 237 to 156, the rule under which the proposed bill would have been brought to the floor for final action.

Rep. Thaddeus J. Dulski, D.-N.Y., chairman of the House Committee on Post Office and Civil Service, said later that his committee would make no further effort to bring the matter to the House floor.

Connecticut Plans Recycling Job

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Short on dumping ground and tired of smoky incinerators, Connecticut announced on Monday a statewide recycling plan that eventually will convert all its garbage into electricity, fuel and reusable metal and glass.

The state Department of Environmental Protection unveiled a 20-year, $295-million blueprint for solid waste disposal that relies heavily on still unproven technology being tested in other parts of the country.

A spokesman for the federal Environmental Protection Agency said the plan was unique in its scale.

It calls for Connecticut to build 10 "resource recovery plants" at the rate of one each year beginning in 1976. The plants will separate bulk refuse into reusable materials such as aluminum, glass and ferrous metals, which will be sold.

What little remains will be carted away to landfills.

The state plans to build 45 centers where garbage will be collected and shipped to the recovery plants by truck, barge or rail. The plan also calls for 18 new landfills.

The state hopes to increase the amount of waste recovered from the present figure of less than 5 per cent to more than 60 per cent by 1985.

In the first full year of operation, probably 1976, state officials anticipate recovering 72,000 tons of iron and steel, 47,000 tons of glass and 4,000 tons of aluminum. The energy developed will be equivalent to 650,000 barrels of oil, officials say.

By 1975, they anticipate recovering enough from iron and steel to build 200,000 automobiles, enough glass to make 450 million bottles, 23,000 tons of aluminum and enough energy to generate 10 per cent of Connecticut's energy needs.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Earlier this month, a young Lincoln attorney named Douglas K. German released a statement concerning his tentative resignation from the Legal Aid Society. The statement contained some strong words on the equality of our legal system.

"By working daily with members of the low-income communities," he wrote, "I have seen Lincoln as few people see it. There is definitely a large faction of our society which is not seen, served, listened to, or allowed a say-so in community matters . . .

"The upper income group rarely needs the courts to obtain its societal goals since it has the resources to gain sufficient control of a number of institutions to insure that its will is implemented."

German continued, summarized here: "The middle and upper-income groups, thus the court and the prosecutors, view 'law and order' as a one-way street. The low-income groups are to obey the 'law' and they will do the 'ordering'. Even though I was well aware of the fact that the law does not treat our different income classes equally before I started working for Legal Aid, I have been struck with the degree that this is true in Lincoln . . .

"In the case of most legal relationships involving the low income, it is presumed that the party must conscientiously seek out his responsibilities under law and be punished immediately if he is remiss. To the contrary, in the case of government agencies, large corporations or municipalities, it is presumed that they should be allowed to act as they please until called into question; that the law need not be followed, and if eventually found remiss, that all, including the prosecutors, should discount it as a 'mistake'."

We have no reason to doubt German's sincerity but we wonder if he has, somehow, managed to lose his objectivity. Working with low-income groups in the area of legal rights, we would suspect that one's perspective might not remain as clear as it should.

One obvious reason for this is that the status of low income is a serious problem in its own right, regardless of legal matters or the legal system. We would wonder if German is correct in his indictment of the legal system or if he has simply failed to recognize the real nature of what he has been dealing with.

There is no question that financial resources are an important factor in our society, important even in the application of the law and the workings of the legislative process where laws are made. But when money produces a favored response for any certain group, it is not automatically to be considered an act of prejudice or deliberate favoritism.

When the legal system fails the poor, it is not so much a matter of inequality of the law, but rather, of economic inequality. German may accuse us of a semantical argument but we feel the distinction to be made is an important one.

The distinction makes it clear that it is not so much reform of the legal system that is needed but reform of the economic system. What we need is not necessarily a different set of laws or a new system but some means by which the law and the system we have are made more fully available to the poor.

And finally, we need programs that attempt to do something about poverty itself, that attempt to break the chain of poverty that always seems to exist in any community. It does not seem irrelevant or superficial to note that the greatest problem of the poor is being poor and it is not said with indifference.

'Here I Am, Copper'

Not A Farm Bill

Late last week on this page there was a general discussion of agriculture, including a few things relating to the farm bill now in Congress. It occurs to us that references to a farm bill may be misleading and that the legislation might more properly be called a food bill or a consumer protection bill.

When you refer to a farm bill, it tells many urban people that you are talking about something for the farmers. There has always been room for argument on this score with any of the farm programs of the past but there is even more room for argument with the new farm bill.

The new bill really does very little for the farmer. At best, it assures him of a welfare level of existence. And even that is not intended as a benefit for him.

What that intends to do is to motivate the farmer to produce in sufficient quantities to feed the American people and a great part of the rest of the world. The latter is no small item when you consider the latest Department of Agriculture announcement that as much as one-half of this summer's total wheat harvest will be exported to other lands.

When you come to the end of the line on the new farm bill, you come to the dinner table with every single family in America. It is at the dinner table that the new farm program is calculated to have its impact, assuring that the meal is nutritious and plentiful.

It is reliably calculated that the new program, at worst, would cost the government no more than half of the program for 1973. And it is believed from a practical point of view that direct payments to farmers for crops will not even be a drop in the bucket in 1974.

What the new bill really does is rely upon the economy to maintain current and relatively good prices in the market for the goods produced by farmers and ranchers. Government payments to farmers would not come into play unless prices dropped to bankrupcy levels.

With the new "consumers" farm bill, the family food budget may have to be a little higher but food will still be one of the best bargains in that budget. Even more important, there will be food available to buy.

Interest, A Sacred Cow

Mixed emotions greet the announcement that higher commercial lumber yields are being sought by the administration from federally owned recreational lands. A U.S. Forest Service spokesman applauded the presidential effort to cut down on inflation in the building industry but expressed concern for a number of areas of conservation.

Whether higher cutting of timber in federal lands will actually fight inflation is anybody's guess. The alternative is simply a windfall for the lumber industry and that eventuality would not surprise us at all.

At the same time, we notice that the eastern banks have raised their prime interest rate again, this time to 8¾%. This, too, is hailed as a way of fighting inflation by working against credit purchases in the private economy.

But when you make lumber more available for such things as home construction and then contribute to higher interest rates to cover the purchase of such housing, you wonder if the right hand knows what the left hand is doing. We have always viewed high interest rates as a highly questionable method of fighting inflation but to couple it with incentives in the building industry is to compound the paradox.

We can understand the theory of it, all right, but the practicality and equity of it escape us. The availability of housing and the inability to buy it may tend to stabilize or even reduce the price of acquiring your own home. But when you do acquire that home, your mortgage payments will be no less and probably higher due to the rising interest rate.

Thus, in the end, the prospective home-owner finds nothing working to his advantage and the lending institutions sitting pretty. One wonders why even the lumber and building industry would see much of any advantage in this.

But as usual, interest rates are a sacred cow that few national political administrations have ever seemed inclined to disrupt. It is too bad that the cost of credit or money is not viewed in the same light as all the costs of living.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter is 8 months old and has not had any baby shots. She has cut four teeth and is trying for five more all at the same time and is feverish. I was told by friends that I should not have any shots for her until she is a little better and that when babies get these shots they have a fever with them. Can the shots hurt her in any way while she is teething so hard? I'm so worried that if I wait any longer she will catch something dreadful.—L.A.

It's understandable that a baby may be cranky when cutting teeth, but you are risking more than crankiness or feverishness if you don't go ahead and get those shots for your baby.

It is true that some youngsters run a little fever after getting their shots; others don't. In any event, it isn't serious.

But not getting the vaccinations can be serious. For one thing, there has been a sudden increase in measles. When that vaccine was first available, mass inoculations were given and measles almost disappeared.

In the following years, people began to get careless about measles vaccine — and the disease is soaring upward again. The same applies to polio. People are neglecting the vaccine, and if they keep on, you know what will happen. Polio will be on the rise again.

The vaccinations are important. It is not wise to postpone them because your friends tell you. If there is any real reason for postponement, your doctor will tell you so.

Your youngster won't be the first, by millions, to have shots while teething.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I drink about a quart of milk a day. My grandmother says this is too much and it will cause me to have heart trouble. Can this be true? I am 12 years old.—D.H.

Milk does not cause heart trouble, but your grandmother apparently has been misled by people who say so. That's about the right amount of milk for a girl your age.

☆ ☆ ☆

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been subject to gout attacks for many years, always confined to my great toes. I used to treat same with colchicine. Inflammation seldom lasted over a week. Two years ago my doctor suggested I take two Benemid tablets a day to prevent the uric acid buildup and I have not had an attack since. I would like to know if there are any likely side effects from prolonged use and if there is a more desirable preventive on the market? — H.E.W.

Colchicine still remains, after ever so long, the most effective treatment when gout acts up. It gives prompt relief from an acute attack. Prolonged use upsets the bowel and digestive tract.

In fairly recent years medications have come along to prevent the attacks. The one you are using is one of them. It has been taken for prolonged periods without harmful effects, and since it works so well for you, I don't see any point in hunting for "a more desirable" one.

It's also a fine protection against some types of kidney stones.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible to become addicted to tea? I am 50 and have had few headaches in my time, but the days I don't drink tea, I get one and just as soon as I drink a cup of tea my headache leaves. I had been drinking three large cups a day, but tried to get away from it when I heard it had some kind of poison in it that gets into the bloodstream.—Mrs. G.M.

It could well be the caffeine in the tea that relieves your headache, that plus any sugar you may use in it.

I see no danger in your use of tea. Three cups a day is not excessive.

☆ ☆ ☆

Dear Dr. Thosteson: For two weeks my eyes have been bloodshot and they itch and hurt all the time. I wear contacts but I don't think they can be the cause of it because I've worn them five years without any trouble. A friend said it could be my sinuses, but I've never had a sinus problem before. Is that possible?—Mrs. M.K.

I see no reason why sinuses should cause any such trouble with your eyes, any more than I can see why an eye condition should give you sinus trouble.

Whether your contact lenses have any connection with it is something I wouldn't care to guess about. It is possible that long-continued wearing of contacts, without sufficient rest periods between wearings, can irritate the eyes, even after five years.

However, let's not jump to conclusions. Have a specialist examine your eyes. Eyes are too precious to take chances with.

☆ ☆ ☆

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Where can I buy female hormone estrogen cream such as you have mentioned? I have tried to get it but so far haven't been able to find it anywhere.—Mrs. H.H.

Estrogen whether in tablet, cream or other form is a prescription item. It should be used only when there is clear need for it, and your doctor is the one to determine that.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Against Amnesty

Lincoln, Neb.

Regarding the story, "A Nation's Problem, A Mother's Pain," in the July 21 Star, how many mothers lost sons in Vietnam because their sons were drafted at an earlier date to go in place of this son? How many men are confined in veterans' hospitals for the rest of their lives because they replaced a deserter? These men would like to be home and lead normal lives, too.

There are many jobs in the service for conscientious objectors. Many young men served as CO's. They have nothing to do with armed conflict. These men did not desert their country.

I had six nephews in Vietnam at one time. These boys were very homesick and would have loved to call home to hear their families' voices. One came home a DAV.

Many of those disabled would love to be able-bodied and have a good job and be happy, as this son is in Canada. It hurts these honorable servicemen because they have no hope of returning to a normal life again. They gave their peace of mind and bodies to help a little country in trouble.

If amnesty were granted draft-dodgers and deserters, we would sell our brave and deserving young servicemen down the river. The deserters can come home, serve five years in jail and be free men, while those in hospitals cannot be free in five years.

We have a right to freedom only so long as we are willing to fight for it. Amnesty for rats? Never!

Watergate

Lincoln, Neb.

The Watergate hearings conducted by the Sen. Ervin committee are presenting via television a distorted, prejudicial, and vengeful attack on every person who appears before it.

The audience at this hearing is definitely stacked. Total reaction in favor of the committee and against the defendants never varies. It must be concluded that any person favorable to the witnesses are barred.

The TV networks and many commentators are guilty of complicity in this improper exposure to the public. Not only are they guilty of presenting a distorted, vengeful, and biased view to the world; the commentators and the democratic majority are neglecting to solve most of the vital problems facing our country. They are more interested in attempting to crucify President Nixon, even if in this attempt they destroy world confidence in America.

A special prosecutor, Mr. Cox, has been selected and given authority to bring into court for a fair trial all those involved in these unlawful acts. It would be to the best interests of all Americans to stop the TV exposure of this circus ballyhoo and charade.

Let Mr. Cox do the job for which he was employed and require the Ervin committee members to get back on the job for which they were elected.

The Moral Issue

Brainard, Neb.

Watergate was a "deplorable incident" to President Nixon. It was a "cancer" and "tragedy" to John Dean III. To John Mitchell the plans for bugging, espionage, and prostitute spying were "stupid", "unnecessary" and a "horror story". To others, tampering with the electoral process and the very constitutional foundations of the United States through deception and power grabbing was "inappropriate . . . at this point in time".

To none of these does it seem to have been a moral issue. Phrases such as "deplorable incident", "caper", "cancer", "tragedy", "horror story", and "inappropriate" say nothing about the moral wrong of violating trust in people and respect for the rights of every man. Seemingly all took place as if there were absolutely no connection between public affairs, political achievement, civil law and divine law — let alone personal and economic success.

To what extent are we witnessing a concrete display of the prevailing ethics of our society in the slow unveiling of the total Watergate disaster? —in spite of what we claim, profess, and hear for one hour Sunday morning?

To what extent are our churches and synagogues addressing themselves specifically to the "moral dimension" and the "moral destitution" of Watergate after the fashion of Amos, Isaiah, and Jeremiah?

To what extent are rabbis, ministers, bishops and priests so conscious of their own personal or church-sponsored Watergates that they dread hearing, "Physician, heal thyself," echo off the walls of the church?

Silence at this time or vague generalities that tiptoe around and about the political sensitivities of the congregation will do nothing but drive deeper the prevailing moral sense that so antiseptically separates politics and civil law from natural and divine law.

The Church and the Gospel have been on the fringe of politics and government for too long, the Supreme Court's recent admonition notwithstanding. As we say on the farm, "The chickens are coming home to roost."

REV. ROBERT ROH

PHYLLIS BATTELLE

Country Could Have Good $2 Candidate

NEW YORK — America is a land which is supposed to be "of the people, by the people and for the people."

Its founders didn't intend it to be a land of ITT, by General Motors and for American Airlines . . . or any of the other sources of big wealth which have, voluntarily or through political coercion, funded America's election campaigns.

"The Number One serious problem in your government process is the way campaigns are financed," says John Y. Brown. "It's my belief that no wealthy individual or corporation should be permitted by law to give more than 3-to-5,000 dollars to any candidate, and that the major sources of campaign money should come from the public at large.

"If we are truly to have a nation for the people, the people must buy back their government!"

And they can do it, Brown contends, without much strain. "All the candidates for office on local, state and federal levels in 1972 spent a total of $400-million in campaigning. If each voting American contributed just $2 to a candidate they believed in, that figure would have reached — without the large, strings-attached contributions that are traditional in politics."

These citizens' contributions, Brown adds, "certainly should be tax deductible."

Another aspect of our political process that deeply disturbs Brown — a millionaire businessman and, rather obviously, a Democrat — is the Madison Avenue packaging of our candidates.

"I don't think a man or woman ought to be allowed to present television spots like shampoo commercials — the flag-waving, the patriotic songs, the pat answers devised by advertising men. There must be more regulation on how the public's TV media are used to sell a candidate. I think political campaign appearances on TV should be limited to: 1) debate between or among opponents; 2) cross-examination of a candidate by the press, or 3) cross-examination by the public at large.

John Y. Brown is one of the most successful young (39) businessmen in America: board chairman of Kentucky Fried Chicken, Inc., the world's largest commercial food service operation; owner of the 350-unit Lum's Restaurant chain, and owner (with his pretty wife, Ellie) of the Kentucky Colonels Basketball Club. Last year, the Democratic party asked if he had any ideas for helping them get out of their financial problems, incurred during the 1968 campaign.

"I looked over the figures, and realized that something's wrong with our great system when one party (Republican) has $50-million, and the other is $9-million in debt."

It was then that he firmed up his philosophy that it is the people, not the great wealth, that can come to the aid of the party. Brown conceived and chaired an 18½-hour Democratic telethon, in which he and some 167 performers pulled in contributions amounting to more than $4-million to reduce his party's debt. That was last July.

Now, this Sept. 15, Brown will stage another Demotelethon, a 6½-hour NBC special which he hopes will wipe out the still-existing deficit and put the Democrats well in the black.

"I don't want to oversell, but I think the mood of this country is looking for something to turn to — in the other direction from Watergate.

Dist. by King Features Synd.

ANTHONY LEWIS

No Apologies Tendered

London — Looking at Washington from a distance in these days of serial horror, one is struck by a generality even more devastating than the particular disclosures of crime and arrogance. It is the failure of the men who committed these acts to show the slightest consciousness of wrongdoing.

Consider some of the things we have learned in recent weeks — matters not subject to factual dispute:

— The President of the United States taped every sound in his office for years, betraying others' expectation of confidence and denying himself the dignity of privacy.

— At the direction of the President, his chief domestic aide offered high federal office to a judge than presiding in a controversial criminal trial of great political interest to the President.

— White House agents broke into a psychiatrist's office to steal the records of a patient who was being prosecuted in that trial, after the FBI had requested the records in a lawful manner and the doctor had properly refused them.

— American planes bombed Cambodia for 14 months without the knowledge of the public, of Congress, of the civilian head of the Air Force or of its vice chief of staff. False official reports were made on those raids, and apparently on others in Laos.

— American soldiers led combat patrols in Laos in violation of a specific legal prohibition voted by Congress and signed by the President.

No apology has been voiced for any one of those acts. Far from it. They have been defended at the highest level as necessary, authorized, constitutional and proper.

The unrepentant attitude has been on public display in the face and words of John Ehrlichman. In essence his position has been that anything is within the power of the White House if it declares a national security interest. When a senator asked whether murder was permissible along with burglary, Ehrlichman replied that he did not want to draw the line.

Such obliviousness to the reality of wrongdoing raises disturbing questions.

Do these men have personality defects that make them literally unable to distinguish between right and wrong? Do they reflect some terrible new flaw in American society, in our family life and education? Or may the world military role of the United States and the power concentrated in the White House inevitably produce a tendency to hubris?

There can be no definitive answer to such mysteries. But Americans must be concerned with their society's attitude toward the corruption of power now that it has been so dramatically exposed. And here there are some worrying signs of cynicism.

Too many Americans, including visitors to Europe, dismiss Watergate as the sort of thing "all politicians do." They do not, and it would be death in a democracy to assume that they did. Then there is the reported inclination of leading Democrats to keep Richard Nixon in office until 1976, so it will be easier to beat any Republican then. Merely to state that proposition is to know how unworthy a response it is to a crisis of confidence in government.

Another troubling idea in the air is that we must get back to government business as usual. Both Time and Newsweek last week conveyed, with a ring of establishment approval, a call by Henry Kissinger for a sort of Watergate cease-fire to let the Nixon foreign policy go forward. "We could come together on the fundamentals," he was reported as saying.

The fundamental that Kissinger has never understood is respect for the institutions of democracy. The foreign policy of which he has been a principal author has operated too often with open contempt for Congress and law. And for truth: After 14 months of secret bombing in Cambodia, President Nixon announced his 1970 invasion in a speech saying that for five years we had not moved against enemy sanctuaries there "because we did not wish to violate the territory of a neutral nation."

When Mr. Justice Brandeis said "Crime is contagious," he was warning against official crimes, done in the name of the national interest. Recent events have shown how wise he was. Men who wage war in secret find it easy to tap telephones, and justify burglaries, and treat their own wishes as superior to the law made by Congress.

All governments do some nasty things, in foreign affairs especially. But when those things come to light, a decent government treats them as aberrations or disowns them. It does not embrace lawlessness as policy.

What the United States needs now is a cleansing awareness of wrongdoing, not pieties about carrying on the business of government. The only thing worse than Watergate would be cynical acceptance of its values.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Human Mind Is Most Promising Source Of Contentment

By ROBERT PETERSON

One of my elder acquaintances is a widow in her 80s. She was once rich and socially active. But the death of her husband, debts and poor investments have forced her to move from a 12-room French Provincial home to a tiny upstairs room in a second-rate hotel.

Yet her attitude and morale are splendid. She never seems depressed and finds delight in each new day. When I visited her recently I felt so disheartened seing her bleak room, with its faded wallpaper and sagging iron bed, that I asked how she managed to adjust.

She pointed to her head and smiled. "I spend most of my time up here. My surroundings don't matter so long as my mind is alive with rich thoughts, ideas and memories.

"Most people don't realize what a marvelous gift the mind is," she went on. "With proper mental resources you can rise above material things and find contentment wherever you are."

When I left her I found myself wishing there were specialists available to help mature people everywhere find greater intellectual pleasures. The woods are full of occupational therapists and instructors teaching hobbies, games and recreation. But where are the sages who can help fill stagnant minds with mental delights sufficient to sustain and satisfy?

One of the few persons I've heard of who specializes in helping people develop their minds is Nina Morgan, a slender, magnetic woman of indefinite years who has a master's degree in speech arts from Columbia University.

"Anyone blessed with the spark of life and reasonably good health should find delight in just being alive," said Miss Morgan, when I talked with this petite lady who communicates her views in private and group classes in New York.

"We live in a world which places great premium on tangible possessions, and sometimes think we can't be happy unless we have beautiful homes, the newest clothes, the latest cars, and assorted luxuries from mink coats to deep freezes.

"But far greater happiness can spring from a mind cultivated by reading good books, by knowing something of the history of man and having experienced many things and known many people."

Where can one begin? "Begin by trying to expand your mind," she said. "Many scientific studies have shown that most of us use but a fraction of the mind's potentials. There are many forces of intellectual enrichment, and when one has developed an understanding of these forces he begins to find greater satisfaction within himself.

"One primary force is man's senses. The ability to see, hear, smell, taste and touch is an incredible endowment. Yet most people are barely aware of this endowment and fail to scratch the surface in utilizing it as a source of pleasure. By developing a keener appreciation of senses, and heightening dimensions of sensitivity, we come to find new awe in things which were once commonplace."

Most of us could use greater intellectual development. The outer world contributes largely to the joys of youth, but the inner world is our most promising source of contentment as we grow older.

San Francisco — I was having lunch with this TV man in New York and he said: "I know I'm a hypochondriac, but it could be I'm sick."

The social ramble, dear hearts, that's what gives you heartburn. "You are cordially invited — 7 to 9."

A standup job. Cocktail in one hand. Hors d'oeuvres in the other. ("What did you do in the great war, Daddy?" "I stood and stood and stood.")

It's a blooming wonder I survive year after year.

☆ ☆ ☆

We have a birthday coming up. Not until October but tempus fidgets. It is later than you think.

"October's child is born for woe,

"And life's vicissitudes must know."

Bad enough to get a year older. I decided to update my medical checkup. I am reminded of this by the health magazine in the doctor's outer office.

If I didn't read the health magazines, I wouldn't know what symptoms to get. I'd get all the wrong things wrong with me.

"Remember to get your yearly checkup," said the magazine. "Why not do it each birthday? A good day to remember."

Now I'm starting to remember in advance.

"Doctor is ready now," said the girl in the white uniform.

How about me, am I ready, I thought.

The doctor then began telling me his problems.

"I had this hernia and while I was in the hospital —. Take off your shirt."

I said: "Are you sure you listened to my heart enough? You didn't give it very much."

"Perfectly sound," said the doctor. "As I was saying, while I was in the hospital —."

☆ ☆ ☆

The social jump with the cocktail chatter. The nervous lunch — "One more, Joe, then we'll order."

Home for the evening. "The diswasher's broken again. Can you look at it?"

"Daddy, a terrible thing happened at school today."

These are things that cut you short, Maxwell. The medical checkup is an added starter.

☆ ☆ ☆

"Now lie down and open the trousers," said the doctor. He began kneading my stomach like so much dough.

"He said: "First I got the hernia. Then in the hospital I got pneumonia."

I said: "What kind of hospital is that? Where they give you the daily double. Are you sure you're taking enough time with me? It seems a once over lightly."

The doctor said: "You can dress now. You're perfectly healthy.

I'm the one that should be taking care of myself. Let me tell you —."

☆ ☆ ☆

"Avoid stress," says the health magazine. It gives me a lot of stress just to go in for the checkup. So how does the magazine put that one together?

I had a nervous two-martini lunch. The way I foresee these things, the medic pumps up the cuff on my arm. He looks at the speedometer. Turns and looks thoughtfully and sadly out the window.

Oh, oh.

☆ ☆ ☆

By going for checkups, I found I had a peculiar set of kidneys. "Fifteen years ago, we didn't know about these kind of kidneys," said the medic.

He was pleased as could be. Fifteen years ago, he didn't know. Now he knows. Now I know.

For years and years I went along content with my filter system. Why at this time tell me it's peculiar?

If it had avoided checkups, I would be ignorant but happy.

State Billboard Program Must Await 1974 Action

By The Associated Press

Nebraska's billboard control program must await action by the 1974 Legislature before it can become completely effective, a state official said Monday.

However, the Roads Department has ordered the removal of some existing billboards and has stopped some others from being put up, according to Byron Warlick, head of the department's permit division.

Last year, acting under a threat by the federal government to withhold funds, the 1972 Legislature passed LB1181, creating a billboard control program.

The law banned billboards within 660 feet of Interstate and primary highways, although a number of exceptions were allowed.

The Roads Department drew up a set of regulations to enforce the program but the state Justice Department challenged some of those regulations and the 1973 Legislature received LB490 to correct the flaws.

However, the 1973 Legislature adjourned without passing LB490 and the bill will await action by the 1974 session.

One of the objections by the attorney general was that LB1181 could only require permits of billboards erected after the effective date of the law, not prior to the law as had been proposed by the Roads Department.

The decision's effect is that existing billboards at the time of the law did not need permits and thus the department has been unable to make an accurate survey of how many billboards would fall under the scope of regulation.

Estimates have placed the number at 28,000 billboards along the Interstate and primary highways.

Warlick said some billboards have been torn down under other provisions of LB1181 and others have been blocked from being erected because of the law. Around 6,000 billboards have been taken down.

LB490 would require permits of all billboards.

Even when the program becomes effective, many signs will be permitted to remain under "grandfather rights" which permit those signs to stay which were up when the program took effect.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Tuesday

Capricorn can withdraw, much like a wounded animal. Gemini becomes more animated when hurt, while Leo exhibits bravado. Each sign responds in a unique manner to emotional setbacks — Aries takes the offensive, Taurus maditates and Cancer eats and eats and eats. Pisces goes off to a retreat and Augarius throws a party. Sagittarius studies, travels and may even learn a foreign language. Scorpio responds to "hurt" by whirlwind activity, attempts to fall in love again and, in general, can become more vulnerable than usual. Libra gets closer to family when love flies away, while Virgo becomes critical, analytical and maps a program of studied retreat aimed at an ultimate offensive.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Diet, health dominate. Proper rest and nutrition now are more essential than in recent past. Nerves could be frayed. Change for better is due. Gemini, Virgo persons are in picture. Check travel plans, reservations.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Emotions rush, push and pull you. Control tendency to speak in anger. Applies especially in dealings with family. Libra individual is apt to be ultrasensitive. Know it and measure words and actions. Affair of heart if featured.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): See beyond the immediate. Some information is obscured. Wait and observe. Be aware of subtle nuances. Check details. Pisces, Virgo persons could figure in important ways. Home, Property values should be examined.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): What people tell you and what is actually happening may not coincide. Know it and do your own organizing. Capricorn person could be featured. Visits, short trips might be on agenda. Discard rumors. Go after facts.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Don't hang on to losing proposition. Know when finish has occurred. Aries, Libra persons are in picture. Accent is on payment, collection. Young person is impulsive and tends to be careless — with your money. Protect your own interests.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Tie up deal, agreement. You have earned right to state views and take initiative. One who urges otherwise is faint-hearted and misinformed. Assert yourself in statements and appearance. Shake off tendency to be lethargic. Imprint your style!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Hunch, intuition, ways of obtaining information in unorthodox manner — these are featured. Aquarian is involved. Relative who usually is reliable may now be slightly "off center." Know it — maintain sense of humor.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Friends now may be deceiving you without having any ulterior motives. Innocent fun could be compounded into serious consequences. Social life accelerates. You go places and do things. Be moderate in eating, drinking patterns.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your daydreams could be interrupted. Some practical matters demand attention. One who has whispered sweet nothings comes up with nothing. Now, get back on track. Review goals. Strive for excellence.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Some persons insist on challenging your knowledge. Do research. Check and authenticate. Perceive and feel what is to occur. Strive to stay one step ahead. Much that occurs signifies a future trend.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Smooth over domestic situation. Means don't get on high horse. Make concessions in diplomatic matter. One who is reliable makes offer. Accept. Taurus, Libra persons could figure prominently. Promises sound fine but do some double checking.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You may feel restricted, tied up, frustrated. Key now is to realize that direct action is not necessarily the answer. Go slow. Gather momentum in unobtrusive manner. Virgo is involved. Analyze and deduct. Contract can stand examination.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are strong, practical, high on principles. You also know how to tear down in order to rebuild. You can be stubborn, insistent, passionate and a fool where the opposite sex enter picture. In August, you will be going places and doing things. Social contacts can develop into meaningful relationships.

'Beef Today, Pork Tomorrow'

. . . Governor Takes Note Of Federal Action

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

"I have made special arrangements with the federal government to see to it that you have beef today but it may be the last beef you will eat for a while because tomorrow you will be eating pork," quipped Gov. J. James Exon Monday.

He was speaking to the American Association of Animal Scientists in Lincoln.

Exon noted that pork prices had risen above beef due to governmental interference with normal meat marketing practices.

The freeze on beef is credited with closing 23 beef plants and cutting the production capacity of most of the nation's beef slaughter facilities, according to a spokesman for the American Meat Institute, a packer organization based in Chicago.

"The situation is better in pork than it was with a number of pork plants coming back on line, but the consumer will be feeling the beef shortage by the end of this week," predicted Bruce Butterfield of the institute.

Chains In Act

Butterfield noted that some chain stores with slaughter facilities of their own were trying to find meat supplies for their customers.

Other stores that lack slaughter facilities are trying to buy cattle and have them custom slaughtered, according to George David, manager of American Stores Packing Co. in Lincoln.

David said his company was calling back some employes because pork supplies for his ham and bacon operations were improving.

"We have enough cattle for three days and are working hard to find enough to finish the week. I don't know what will happen after that but this situation cannot go on with packers, processors and stores all losing money," he said.

"Stores are buying some meat and losing money on it becuase they feel they must have meat in the store or the customer won't come in to buy anything," David said.

Duane Von Seggern, manager of the Dinklage Feed Yard with 15,000 cattle on hand near Sidney, said the cattle feeders were losing money as well.

"Government controls have thrown the entire meat industry into a mass of confusion," he added.

Von Seggern said his feed costs had gone up 20% since Phase 4 had been announced. The feedlot uses 1,500 tons of feed each week to fatten cattle for slaughter.

Predicting that many farmers would withhold cattle from market as they search for a higher price, Von Seggern said, "They are not witholding intentionally, it is a matter of price. We may have a shortage of beef before Sept. 12 when the freeze on beef ends but we will never run out of beef. The cattle are here, they just won't be moving along the market line.

Quality Up

One side effect of the freeze has been an improvement in the quality of what beef is being marketed.

"We are getting cattle that are overfinished. We see a lot of prime meat which is unusual. This indicates to me that the cattle coming to market are those which the feeder felt he had to move before the freeze is lifted. You don't get cattle like this when there is a cattle shortage," David said.

Those responsible for meals at the various city and county institutions are apparently maintaining a wait and see attitude on the possibility of a food shortage.

"We have recieved no official notice of a shortage but I think we might go to another source if a shortage should develop," Jerry Gibson, administrator of Lancaster Manor in Lincoln.

Thelma Grubb, Westview Nursing Home administrator, said the home raised its own chickens but the beef shortage could cause some menu changes at the home.

No Change At Jail

Inspector Bob Meyers at the city jail had no plans for menu changes but suggested that other protein sources might be used in the event of a shortage.

Union officials reported some minor layoffs in the supermarket meat departments and some restaurants were searching for alternate sources of meat.

But serious shortages were not apparent to restaurant customers as of Monday, however managers of several restaurants expressed concern about the availability of supplies in the future.

12th Street Mall Work Nearing Completion

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln City Campus will become a total haven for pedestrians soon with completion of a walkway across the last drive through the campus proper. The new sidewalks will complete a mall on 12th Street between Avery Lab on the west and Burnett and Oldfather Halls on the east. Drivers who used to sneak through the campus on the drive paralleling the mall will have to take either 10th or 17th streets now to get from the south side of the campus to parking areas on the north. The construction, financed with $32,000 from special maintenance and grounds funds, will complete a longtime plan to eliminate through traffic on the campus. (Star Photo)

Wheat Harvest 90% Done; End In Sight Next Week

Nebraska's wheat crop is 90% harvested and with good weather conditions harvest should be nearly completed next week, according to the State-Federal Bureau of Agricultural Statistics in its weekly crop-weather report.

Rain slowed harvesting progress in the Panhandle until Friday, but combines made good progress over the weekend, the report stated.

"Corn continues to be in mostly good to excellent condition with counties reporting 54% good, 43% excellent and 3% poor," the bureau said. About three-fourths of the crop is silking, compared with 68% normal for this time of the season.

Sorghum crop condition ranged from good to excellent with county agents reporting 59% good and 41% excellent.

Soybean condition was rated 64% good, 32% excellent and 4% fair, the same as last week.

Soil moisture conditions continued to improve during the week with many counties receiving precipitation. Top-soil moisture supplies were reported as being adequate for 92% of the counties, surplus for 5% and short for 3%. Subsoil moisture supplies are reported 97% adequate with 3% short.

Rainfall received in the state during the past week included:

First Marines, Then The FBI, Now Marriage

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—A Marine Corps lieutenant who became one of the first two woman agents of the FBI is about to become a bride.

Susan Lynn Roley was assigned to the FBI's Omaha office in July, 1972.

On Sept. 8, she will be married to Marine Corps Capt. George Martin Malone in a ceremony at Community Presbyterian Church in Laguna Beach, Calif.

Capt. Malone currently is attending the Amphibious Warfare School in Quantico, Va.

Curtis Sponsors Constitutional Amendment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., introduced a constitutional amendment Monday to require collection of taxes to cover any deficit in the annual federal budget.

The amendment would require the President to submit a balanced budget each year, estimating the amount of a surtax that would go into effect automatically if expenditures exceed estimated receipts.

If Congress increases appropriations, the speaker of the House would be required to calculate the surtax needed to bring the budget into balance.

Curtis was joined in sponsoring the amendment by Sens. Paul Fannin and Barry Goldwater of Arizona, Roman Hruska of Nebraska, Jesse Helms of North Carolina and William L. Scott of Virginia, all Republicans.

Robber Of Two Still At Large

MAXWELL, Neb. (AP)—The State Patrol said it was still searching Monday for a man who robbed two Indiana residents at an Interstate 80 rest stop Sunday. The robber shot and pistol whipped one of the victims, the Patrol said.

The victim were Hollis Fitzsimons of Highland, Ind., and Oran Bouser, 28, of Gary, Ind.

Bouser and Fitzsimons told Patrolmen the bandit followed them into a rest room, produced a pistol and demanded $50 from each of them.

Californian Dies In I-80 Crash

A California driver lost her life Monday in a one-car accident just west of the Greenwood Interchange on Interstate 80, the State Patrol reported.

She was identified as Nancy Ruth Burton, 21, of Whittier, Calif.

The patrol said the car left the road and turned over. A passenger, James R. Reyna, 27, of Santa Cruz, Calif., escaped with a bruised shoulder.

Three persons lost their lives on Nebraska highways Sunday.

A 16-year-old Yankton, S. D., youth died Monday of injuries he suffered late Sunday in an automobile crash on Highway 12 about two miles east of Crawford. Authorities said Joseph Thornton died of head injuries received in the accident.

A rural Bloomfield teenager was killed when the car in which she was riding crashed off a Knox County road 3½ miles west of Lindy Sunday afternoon. The victim was identified as Kathy Case, 15. She was a passenger in a car driven by Karen Thompson of rural Bloomfield. Authorities said Miss Thompson and another passenger in the car sustained minor injuries.

A Loup City man, Howard Stapleman, 29, was killed when his car careened off a road west of North Loup early Sunday. Four passengers were injured. Stapleman's wife and 6-year-old son were treated and released from Valley County Hospital. Admitted to the hospital were Mrs. Cheri Sheldon and Harold Szafrajda, both of Loup City.

NPPD OKs $1.3 Million Line Project

Columbus (UPI) — The board of the Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) has approved construction of 32 miles of 115,000-volt transmission line in southwestern Nebraska.

The project will cost $1,304,000.

The line is needed to supply electricity primarily for the increased irrigation load of the Southwest Public Power District customers in the Palisade, Imperial, Benkelman and Trenton areas.

The board also approved bids to purchase 14 small power transformers to be installed in the district's grid system prior to the summer peak loads of 1974. Total purhcase price will be $472,522.

Father Held In Infant's Death

FREMONT, Neb. (AP)—A Fremont man is being held in Dodge County jail in connection with the death of his four and a half month old son.

Dodge County Atty. Gordon Gobel said an investigation was launched after the child died early Monday morning. He said an autopsy has been ordered.

Deputy Regains Job But Lands In Motor Pool

Bellevue (AP) — A Deputy Sheriff who was fired for remarks he allegedly made about his boss has returned to work. But the sheriff says the deputy will be "in charge of the motor pool."

Deputy Robert G. Reynolds was fired several months ago by Sheriff Richard Whitted. A Federal District Court has ordered Whitted to put him back to work with about $2,300 in back pay. The order was against Whitted himself, and not the county.

When Reynolds reported for work Monday, he sat in a chair for about two hours; then Whitted told him to take the rest of the day off because he had to revise some schedules. Whitted said Reynolds will probably work "somewhere out in the motor pool."

Petroleum Exec Will Discuss Oil Shortage

The executive director of the Nebraska Petroleum Council, Charles Chace, will talk about the "oil shortage" Tuesday at a meeting of the Lincoln Rotary Club.

Nebraska Pony Express Riders Name Carole Lee President

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Mrs. Carole Lee of Pleasant Dale, Neb., will head the Nebraska Pony Express Riders for the coming year.

The organization is a social group with an annual fund raising event to benefit the Easter Seal's Camp Kiwanis.

Other officers are Bud T. Andersen, Omaha, vice president; Dr. Ivan Hember, Lincoln, second vice president; Mrs. Mona Longly, Lexington, secretary, and Peg Kennedy, Crete, treasurer.

Mrs. Lee said the 1974 Pony Express ride would be April 19 and 20. This year's initial ride raised about $10,000 for the camp, she said.

Omaha Boy Saved From Drowning

Des Moines, Iowa (AP) — A 7-year-old Omaha, Neb., boy remained in serious condition in a Des Moines hospital Monday after he nearly drowned in a West Des Moines apartment complex swimming pool Sunday. Gary Goff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goff, was saved from drowning by an unidentified man who found the child unconscious in the pool and pulled him out.

Arson Suspected In Cafe Blaze

Omaha (AP) — Sixteen to 18 persons were evacuated from the Carlisle Hotel near downtown Omaha Monday when fire in a downstairs cafe sent smoke into the building. The hotel also suffered water damage. One person was hospitalized in apparently serious condition with burns. Fire officials were investigating the possibility of arson in connection with the fire. They said the Carlisle Cafe was gutted.

Knicely Named Clerk To Blackmun

Sidney — James J. Knicely, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Knicely of Sidney, has been selected law clerk to U.S. Supreme Court Justice Harry A. Blackmun and will assume his duties Aug. 1 in Washington, D.C. A graduate of Harvard Law School, Knicely spent the past year as a law clerk with U.S. Circuit Judge Roger Robb of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia.

Kiwanis Club To Receive Charter

Holdrege — This city's newest civic club will receive its charter in ceremonies Tuesday night and the Phelps Centennial Kiwanis Club will become the state's newest Kiwanis Club at that time. Featured speaker will be Carl V. Hays of Marshalltown, Iowa, of the Nebraska-Iowa District. The Rev. Earl Higgins is president of the club with Jim A. Robertson, president-elect, and Keith Sandfort, secretary-treasurer.

Nebraskan Assigned To Costa Rica

Washington — Mary Lou K. Miller of Omaha, was recently assigned by the State Department to serve a two-year tour of duty at the American Embassy in San Jose, Costa Rica. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira A. Miller of Omaha, she entered the foreign service in May. She was employed for three years by the Soil Conservation Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Berkeley, Calif.

Jobs For Disadvantaged Goal Exceeded

Omaha (AP) — The National Alliance of Businessmen has exceeded its goals for finding jobs for disadvantaged persons in the Omaha area during the fiscal year which ended June 30. Area chairman William G. Murphy said the alliance — a joint effort of business, labor and government — placed 1,165 disadvantaged Omaha area residents in jobs during the year, as compared with a goal of 764. Murphy said jobs also were found for 1,589 Vietnam veterans, compared with a goal of 1,062.

New State Patrol Building 'Far Cry' From '46 Garage

By DICK HOLMAN
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Grand Island — In 1946, Troop "C" of the Nebraska State Patrol here kept its supplies in a sergeant's garage — also its headquarters.

Through the years, recalled Lt. L. W. French, the troop moved from "a cubbyhole in the city engineer's office," and later into "two little rooms in the county shops."

Since 1956, the troop has shared quarters with the State Roads Department district office.

Today the 50-man troop finally has a home of its own, "the only building of its type" in the State Patrol, and it's a "far cry" from the old days of law enforcement, French said.

Cramped Before

The patrol plans to build new headquarters in Omaha and has projected another building for North Platte. Grand Island had much the same cramped situation that Scottsbluff has, operating out of an armory.

"Our criminal investigation people were in other offices," French said. "Now we're all together." Besides, he said, the roads department needed the room the patrol was occupying.

The new two-level Troop "C" building, dedicated June 15, has 7,600 square feet and cost $237,000.

The headquarters serves 17 counties: Adams, Buffalo, Clay, Franklin, Garfield, Greeley, Hall Hamilton, Howard, Nuckolls, Kearney, Merrick, Polk, Sherman, Valley, Webster and York.

Inside there's elbow room, as well as some sophisticated equipment.

Direct Link

The duty officer has a radio monitor linked directly to the main communications center below and he may also transmit if necessary.

The safety education office has ample space to store films and projector equipment for its defensive driving classes it holds for schools, civic groups and churches, to name some.

There is a troop room and personal offices for officers and sergeants.

The criminal investigation division for the first time has a new polygraph (lie detector) machine in a specially designed polygraph room.

"They've used this a lot," French said. "We're in the process of recruiting now" and the troopers use the polygraph for one part of the applicants' screening process, as well as its own crime work.

Polygraph Available

The patrol makes the polygraph available to other law enforcement agencies, assisting them in their investigations.

The patrol's drug investigation division, primarily an undercover operation, also has its own offices.

The 1,200-square-foot garage can hold up to four vehicles but is intended to store vehicles impounded in investigations and to provide an inside area for minor patrol car maintenance, French said.

"It's also big enough to store our emergency communications vehicle," he said. The patrol takes the big van to disaster or distrubance scenes and can communicate directly with the National Guard, police, civil defense or the game commission.

The garage houses a generator, the troop's emergency power supply which French said "can operate independent of any public utility companies." The building is also hooked up to its self-contained well.

Ramps Aid Invalids

Instead of steps leading to upper and lower levels in the rear of the building, "everything is ramps, so conceivably a person in a wheel chair could enter," French said.

The lower level houses a large conference room where safety education troopers hold local defensive driving classes. And there are many rooms where Troop "C" can store evidence.

An emergency kitchen is being equipped for the troop to store rabies specimens being relayed via Grand Island to other locations.

The three rooms of the communications center are "constructed so more can be added" if necessary, French said. The main comm center also has a window for access by people who enter the headquarters after regular hours.

Newspaper Folds Again

Hickman — The Hickman Enterprise, resurrected in June after a 21-year slumber, once again will die, according to its July 27 edition.

The small weekly is folding because there isn't enough money to continue publishing, the Enterprise reported.

However, it added, it expects to become a monthly shopper mailed without charge to area homes by September.

The Enterpirse was begun in 1885. It died in 1952 for want of money, help and equipment.

Dyas Calls Republican's Charge 'Bald Lie'

By United Press International

A Democratic Party official Monday responded to a charge that Gov. J. J. Exon has been collecting fees from public speaking engagement for party use by saying "it's a bald-faced lie."

The response from state Democratic Chairman, Hess Dyas, was to a charge made by Dave Boomer of Lincoln, chairman of the Nebraska Federation of Teenage Republicans.

In a prepared statement, Boomer called upon Exon to "disclose the amount of money he has given to the state Democratic Party from speaking engagement receipts."

Boomer said that in "recent documented stories" Exon spoke to civic clubs "commanding certain fees" which were turned over to the party and to Dyas.

He did not give any examples of the "documented stories."

"It has never happened," Dyas said. "I know for sure there's not been one penny given to the party by the governor for this kind of engagement."

Further, Dyas said he couldn't recall a time when the governor ever accepted any kind of honorarium for making an appearance.

Boomer said the fees should be disclosed because "these civic clubs who invited the governor to speak as a representative of all the people find themselves directly financing his re-election and the political activities of one party."

Exon, however, has so far declined to say whether he will seek a second term in office.

"The governor has some explaining to do," Boomer said.

But Dyas said better than an explanation, the party books as well as the records required by law are open and available in his office and in the secretary of state's office.

Dyas said it appears that no search of even public records was made prior to the release of the charge by Boomer.

"There has been no approach here and obviously a check hasn't been made with the secretary of state's office," he said.

Dyas termed the charge a brand of "cheap shot politics. By that I mean he (Boomer) thinks it might be worthwhile to make a charge like this whether it is true or not."

"This kind of thing just disgusts me," he added.

Boomer, in his statement, asked "How long has this been going on?"

Dyas said not only has nothing been going on as far as civic group appearances are concerned, but he couldn't think of a time when Exon accepted any kind of fee for making even a Democratic Party function appearance.

He also said "the same thing goes for me."

Keystone Rancher Named To Board

Gov. J. J. Exon announced Monday the appointment of Bernard Brogran, a Keystone rancher, to the Lower Platte North Natural Resources District board of directors.

Brogan replaces August Blomenkamp of Keystone, who resigned recently. Brogan's term will expire Jan. 8, 1975.

Ehrlichman Denies Any Guilt

©The New York Times

Washington — John D. Ehrlichman ended Monday the five days of testimony before the Senate Watergate committee as he had begun last Tuesday, by insisting that neither he nor the President was involved in any aspect of the Watergate coverup.

After the committee had finished its questioning, Ehrlichman read a prepared statement reaffirming his support of President Nixon.

Prepared For Testimony

Nixon's former chief domestic adviser declared that he had spent all his time since he resigned April 30 preparing for his testimony before the committee. He had two objectives, he said, that he hoped he had met in more than 30 hours at the witness table.

The first was to establish his innocence of the accusations that had been made against him by several of his former colleagues in the White House. The second objective, he said, was to "raise a voice for the President — to be his advocate."

"I do not apologize for my loyalty to the President," he stated.

Then, Ehrlichman changed his manner from one of a combative witness to that of a fatherly adviser.

He recalled that Gordon C. Strachan, a 30-year-old former White House aide, had told the committee last Monday that he was so distraught at having been snared in the Watergate web that he would advise other young people to "stay away" from jobs in the government.

Different View

Politics, Ehrlichman declared, was only as honest as the people involved in it, and he said that his advice to the young would be different from Strachan's.

"I hope they do come and test their ideas and convictions in this market place," he declared. "I hope they come here and do better."

But Ehrlichman, who is 48, added a note of caution to his advice.

There are many in Washington, he said, who scoff at such qualities as patriotism and sense of family, and young people who go to work for the President should "come here with your eyes open."

But there are also good men, he said, men whose values are the same as his. "Don't stay away. Come. Join them and do it better," he advised.

As he had throughout his testimony, Ehrlichman repeatedly contradicted points made by other witnesses, particularly those of John W. Dean III, the discharged presidential counsel. And he pictured Dean once more as the linchpin in the Watergate scandal — a once-trusted staff member who time and again had misled the President and his closest advisers.

Denies Destruction Order

He denied, as Dean had claimed, that he had told Dean to "deep six" politically sensitive documents that were taken from the safe of E. Howard Hunt Jr., one of the Watergate conspirators.

He swore that he had not, as Dean testified, asked Nixon about the granting executive clemency for Hunt.

There were further denials: that Dean had told him about strategy meetings to plan the perjured testimony of the deputy campaign director, Jeb Stuart Magruder; that he had heard a transcript of a conversation between Hunt and Charles W. Colson, former special counsel to the President, and that he had seen a hand-written note from Dean outlining the officials who, Dean thought, might be indicted in the Watergate case.

After he left the Senate caucus room, Ehrlichman was asked by reporters whether he thought he would be indicted. He answered:

"I see no reason why I should be indicted. I think that the prosecutor has a real political problem here. With all this hoopla on television and so on, if he doesn't indict everybody in sight, he's going to have to have some pretty good reason why he didn't."

Ehrlichman also disputed once more the testimony of Herbert W. Kalmbach, Nixon's former personal attorney.

He said that he had never given Kalmbach personal assurances that there was nothing improper about raising money for the Watergate defendants. He also denied that Kalmbach had ever told him anything specific about his fund-raising efforts, such as how much was raised or from whom.

Ehrlichman also repeated his contention that, while he had known immediately about the 1971 burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's former psychoanalyst by White House agents, he had not told the President about it. But, for the first time, he was asked Monday why he had not done so.

"It was an event that had occurred," Ehrlichman explained. "There was nothing the President could do about it. I just made the judgment it would unnecessarily tax his attention."

But Ehrlichman insisted that, while it was part of his job to filter material from the President, he had never lied to Nixon.

He said that Nixon had never asked him to try to find out how thousands of dollars of the President's campaign funds were found on the men arrested in the Watergate complex on June 17,1972.

In February or early March this year, Ehrlichman testified, the President told him to stay away from Watergate matters so that he could devote his attention to his job as domestic affairs adviser.

Reports Unwritten

Eight different times between last September and the end of March, Nixon asked his aides to prepare a definitive written report on the Watergate situation, but none was ever written, Ehrlichman declared. He was not asked and did not explain what the President's reaction was to this.

Ehrlichman was also questioned briefly about telephone conversations he had on April 17 with Ken W. Clawson, a member of the President's communications staff, and Colson. Ehrlichman had recorded the conversations, and the committee had subpoenaed his transcripts.

Expressway Hearing Set In Beatrice

A public hearing will be held Tuesday night on the proposed four-lane expressway to run from south of Lincoln through Beatrice to the Kansas state line.

The public hearing, to be conducted by the State Highway Commission, will be held in the Beatrice City Auditorium beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Alternative corridor routes range from 47.07 miles to 48.77 miles and costs could range from $36 million to $43.2 million.

Definitely Not Cat Food

Although his nest is now an empty catfood tin can, this hungry young bird doesn't think of himself as potential catfood. Residents of a farm near Huddersfield, England, rescued the fledgling from the jaws of a cat and placed him in the can that makes a deep draft-proof nest. Only a light tap is needed to bring the hungry beak shooting skyward in anticipation.

Butz Anticipates Veto Of Present Farm Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz Monday indicated he wants a farm bill in line with a tight budget and a "fullproduction" national agricultural policy and would recommend a veto for anything else.

Butz, at a news conference, predicted a veto by President Nixon of the farm bill now before House-Senate conferees if it stays in the form agreed to by the conferees Saturday.

The secretary said he thought a veto would not be overridden by the Congress.

And if no bill were forthcoming? he was asked later in the corridor going back to his office. "We don't need it," he replied.

On another topic, Butz insisted that the freeze on beef prices until Sept. 12 would hold. He said he has advised President Nixon that herds are not being liquidated and that controls are not counterproductive as he said they were in the case of other meat and poultry products, leading to the killing of animals.

In a wide-ranging briefing, he frequently returned to his pictured goal of full production by the nation's farmers—to reduce the per-unit cost of farming and, in the process, curb the rate of increase in detail food prices while maintaining a "vigorous export program."

Two provisions of Saturday's version of the farm bill, he said, "are unacceptable. . . I will recommend a veto if they remain." Both, he said, would be inflationary in that they would increase federal spending.

She Reads Braille To Little Hank

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Henry Phillip Vetter — affectionately shortened to Little Hank as befits his 15 months of age — reached excidedly for the large illustrated book of poems.

"No, you can't have it," his mother, Mrs. Henry Vetter, said gently. "You'll have to be bigger before you can read it yourself. I'll read it to you."

With that, they settled into a big chair in the living room of the Vetters' home.

A typical scene of a mother reading to her youngster — unless you happen to glance over Mrs. Vetter's shoulder and see the book.

Repeated In Braille

On page one are the bright illustrations and big-letter words that delight children. On the opposite page the verse is repeated. . .in Braille.

It takes something like the half-braille book to remind you there is anything that sets the Vetters apart from the other couples who are discovering the joys of adopting a child.

Vetter, who does assembly work at Western Electric's plant, started losing his eyesight as a child and has been totally blind since he was 20. He is now 47.

Mrs. Vetter, 34, is considered legally blind. That means she has very limited vision, being able to pick out objects such as street lights.

Do many visually handicapped couples adopt? 5/8

No Others

"I've never heard of any others," said Dean S. McDermott, director of the state's rehabilitation services for the visually impaired.

"But there's no reason why blind couples shouldn't adopt children if they want to and put themselves into the mainstream of live," he continued.

Many blind people have children of their own, McDermott said. "I have a great deal of confidence in blind people. Their capabilities far exceed what the public expects."

Mr. and Mrs. Vetter agree.

Mrs. Vetter said the biggest challenge so far has been feeding her active youngster.

Feeding A Challenge

"I figured out quickly that by putting the palm of one hand gently under Little Hank's chin I could hold his head and then I could get the spoon in his mouth with the other," she said.

The Vetters said they believe one reason the adoption agency gave them a child was that the case worker saw how self-reliant they are.

Vetter has worked for Western Electric for five years, and spends much of his hobby time as a ham radio operator. Mrs. Vetter, who loves to bowl, does her own cooking, cleaning, and shopping.

They waited for two years after they applied before the call came on May 12, 1972, telling them there was a baby waiting for them.

"We didn't have a thing in the house, not even a bed," said Vetter.

But the Vetters got ready in three days, and on May 15 brought home their 6-day-old son.

Moslem Rebel Band Active In Philippines

©The New York Times

Cotabato, The Philippines — Fighting with the tactics and tenacity reminiscent of some Veit Cong units, a tough little band of Moslem insurgents have dug in on the Cotabo seacoast in Mindanao, as the chief pocket of what appears to be fading resistance in the Moslem up rising against the government in this area.

Estimated to number 700 to 1,000 men, the contingent has held out for months with backs to the sea at the little barrio of Traan against infantry assaults, air attacks and shelling by land and naval artillery. Government forces superior in numbers and firepower have been repeatedly repulsed, with casualties reliably reported here to total more than 150 dead and many more wounded. The insurgents are ensconced in five square miles of scrubby coconut plams thickly overgrown with man-high shrubbery and merging into mangrove swamps near the water's edge.

Using seemingly ample stocks of munitions accumulated long before the present battle, the rebels are fighting from bunkered positions and an elaborate network of trenches, tunnels and underground shelters.

According to military headquarters here, the rebels have land mines and greandes but their main weapons are Belgian-made automatic rifles firing super-velocity bullets with greater powers of penetration than ammunition used in government troops' American-made M-14's.

Gen. Fortunato U. Abat, commander of the central Mindanao combat zone, was noncommittal here about government plans to clean out the pocket but indicated his intention to eliminate it.

He said that it was possible that the rebels were able to infiltrate some reinforcements into their perimeter at night either by boat or land, but that they appeared to be fighting with armaments cached over a period of years.

Abat said that after an upsurge of Moslem rebellion in this grain-growing province beginning last March, activities by government forces had suppressed rebel activity except for the Traan pocket and sporadic activity elsewhere.

Insurgents occupied most of the central Cotobato plain in March and April. All roads were unsafe and there were many highway ambushes. Many small government posts were wiped out by guerrilla raiders.

The government threw in reinforcements, organized and armed residents in Barrio self-defense units to achieve a general clean-up.

Of the several thousand insurgents under arms, hundreds were killed. Others hid their guns and gave up the fight.

"There are some small raids now by guerrillas to grab corn at this harvest time or ambush vehicles on the roads," said Abat, "but mostly things are peaceful."

It is evident that Cotabato city and the surrounding countryside is now quiet. There have been lulls of this kind in the Moslem insurgency before and the possiblity that rebellion will flare up again cannot be dismissed.

Hoffa Returns

Former Teamsters boss James Hoffa conducts a news conference Monday in Washington to support prison reform and push his quest to recapture the presidency of the nation's largest union. After a six-year absence from the capital, Hoffa set up shop in the offices of the National Association for Justice, a prison reform group. Hoffa is director of crisis control for the group.

Congress Agrees On FHA Loans

Washington (UPI) — House-Senate confereees agreed Monday on a bill which would restore FHA-insured mortgages for thousands of Americans, but they left in amendments they acknowledged could invite a presidential veto.

The bill would extend for another year the authority of the Housing and Urban Development Department (HUD) to insure home mortgages under the Federal Housing Administration (FHA).

The low-interest, low-down payment loans to low and middle income persons have not been made by FHA since an authorizing law expired June 30. Since then, thousands of potential home buyers have been unable to secure loans because the lowest possible interest rate was 8.5 per cent and required large down payments.

The conferees kept in the bill — sent to both floors for action before the month-long recess beginning Aug. 3 — two amendments which had been tacked on in the Senate and which endangered the bill's survival.

One government official told UPI that if the amendments were left in, "nobody would be at all surprised to see the President veto it."

School Districts May Allocate More Funds To Educate The Handicapped

By The Associated Press

School districts are not limited to the cost of educating normal students when they set costs for educating handicapped students, Asst. Atty. Gen. Harold Mosher said Monday.

Some persons have "misinterpreted" his opinion on a law enacted by the 1973 Legislature, Mosher said.

The law, LB403, spells out responsibilities of local districts and the state toward handicapped students.

In an opinion prepared for Sen. David Stahmer of Omaha, Mosher said districts must set aside amounts of money for handicapped students which cannot be less than the per-pupil costs for other students.

Some persons had reportedly interpreted the opinion to limit district expenditures to no more than the per-pupil costs for other students.

The new law requires that as of Sept. 2 a district either has to provide its own programs for handicapped students or contract with another agency for such services.

Starting next year, the state will pay 90% of the cost of educating handicapped students above the per-pupil cost, according to the bill.

Mosher met Monday with Stahmer, the sponsor of LB403, to discuss the opinion.

NETV Board Requests Funds For Mobile Unit

The Nebraska Educational Television Commission Monday asked for $422,704 in federal funds to buy a color mobile television unit for the ETV system.

Total cost of the new unit would be $582,704, but the 1973 Legislature approved $160,000 of state funds to provide part of the cost.

The request for federal funds was approved by Gov. J. J. Exon and will be forwarded to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Officials Sign Pact To Aid Disabled Kids

Gov. J. J. Exon announced Monday the signing of an "important agreement" for Nebraska's children with developmental disabilities.

The agreement, Exon said, was signed by officials of the University of Nebraska College of Medicine, the Meyer Children's Rehabilitation Institute of Omaha and the State Institutions Department.

Basically affecting the Beatrice State Home and the Meyer Institute, the agreement identified five areas of cooperation for the two organizations — joint direct service programs; diagnostic and evaluation services; technical assistance; manpower development, and research.

Gen. Wheeler Says . . .

Nixon Ordered Secret Bombing

©The New York Times

Washington — Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, retired chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told a senate committee Monday that President Nixon personally ordered the secret bombing of Cambodia to be conducted under the tightest security measures possible.

"His instructions were of a general nature," the general testified, "but very emphatic. He wanted the matter held with the greatest secrecy."

Wheeler said that it was after that presidential directive — given "at least a half a dozen times" during various high-level meetings before the bombing — that the Joint Chiefs instituted the system of dual reports.

Under that system, now being investigated by the Senate Armed Services committee, the 3,630 secret B52 sorties over Cambodia in 1969 and 1970 were officially described through the military's own reporting channels as having taken place in South Vietnam.

Under repeated questioning about Nixon's relationship to the falsification, Wheeler said that the military devised the mechanics of the dual reporting system. "The President didn't order this particular procedure," he said at one point. "What he wanted was security."

But the retired officer did add that "the dual reporting system was something that grew because we couldn't support our presidential directives."

Wheeler, who was accompanied by a Marine colonel during his appearance, said he did not think that any mention of the specific reporting mechanisms was made during planning sessions with the National Security Council early in 1969.

Those details were included, however, in memorandums on the secret bombing that were sent to Melvin R. Laird, then secretary of defense, Wheeler noted. "But whether these were sent to the White House, I can't say," he added.

Nonetheless, the general testified, the President was pleased by the success of the security measures. "Everybody seemed to be satisfied. At one point I received a letter from the President congratulating me for the good job of maintaining secrecy."

The bombings, which lasted over a 14-month period, were not officially revealed until two weeks ago.

During a meeting with newsmen last week, Laird, now a White House adviser on domestic affairs, specifically asserted that details of the special reporting mechanisms were known to, and approved by, the National Security Council. He did not mention names, but sources close to him said later that Henry A. Kissinger, the President's adviser on national security, and Gen. Alexander H. Haig Jr., who was an aide to Kissinger in 1969, "must have known" about the double-reporting system.

The official justification for the secret bombing campaign was challenged by Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, who had initiated the current hearings.

Hughes cited a number of published complaints and protests against the bombings that he said were issued by the Cambodian government early in 1969.

Only Partial Repair Of Prison Planned

McALESTER, Okla. (AP) — The Oklahoma State Penitentiary, in ruins after a weekend of rioting and burning, will be only partially rebuilt, Gov. David Hall said Monday.

He said many of the prison's 1,750 inmates will be transferred to minimum security institutions, and the 500 to 1,000 inmates who participated in the rebellion and other "hard-core incorrigibles" will remain at McAlester.

Hall pledged to seek "vigorous prosecution" for the rioters, but said the convicts who did not participate, despite threats from the rioters, are to be commended.

At least two inmates were killed, more than 20 persons injured and and an estimated $20 million to $30 million damage done during the 43-hour uprising that began Friday afternoon and ended Sunday.

The governor's office identified the dead inmates as Elwood Woodrow Brooks, 24, of Oklahoma City, and Robin Lee Durrough, 25, of Altus, Okla.

When the governor took office in 1971, the 64-year-old prison had more than 2,300 inmates. "We already had moved several hundred inmates and our goal is to cut the population at McAlester in half," Hall said. "We're shooting for a population of 900 to 1,000."

But Hall said the immediate problem is to determine the total casualties of the weekend riot and find a place for the inmates while repairs are being made.

Officials are checking out rumors of additional deaths, Hall said, adding: "I wouldn't rule out the possibility of multiple deaths until we've checked all the buildings and all the rubble."

Virtually anything that would burn was reduced to rubble over the weekend. Some of the smoldering ruins still were too hot to permit a search for additional bodies Monday.

Most of the prison buildings were destroyed, including all of the industrial complex and factories, the hospital and the chapel.

"The inmates hated it," said the Rev. Don Brooks, the prison's Roman Catholic chaplain, as he stood surrounded by the stillsmoking ruins of the chapel. "They hated the church and they destroyed it because they thought it was part of the institution."

Gov. Hall said all of the inmates were back in their fire-damaged cell blocks by noon Monday except for a handful of nonparticipants who "refused to go back" for fear of reprisals.

He said many of the inmates who did not participate already have been transferred to other institutions.

Hall said many homemade weapons and "some narcotics" were found in a cell-by-cell shakedown at the prison.

The governor and legislative leaders expressed disappointment that the riot occurred just three months after passage of a record $9.7-million prison appropriation bill that included several million dollars for reforms.

Market Value 71% Higher Than Book

. . .Boys Town Stocks Studied

Omaha (AP) — A newspaper said a study showed Monday the market value of industrial stocks owned by Boys Town is 71 per cent higher than the value listed by the institution in an annual report to the federal government.

The study was undertaken by an Omaha brokerage office at the request of The Omaha World-Herald.

The latest available listing of industrial stocks held by Boys Town, home for boys west of Omaha, was on a 1971 report to the Internal Revenue Service.

The IRS requires a listing of so-called book values and not market values.

The study showed the book value of Boys Town industrial stocks totaled $67.6 million, compared with a market value based on 1972 year-end prices of $115.9 million.

The newspaper said the book value of the stocks would not have changed from 1971 to 1972.

The study indicated industrial common stocks were the most significant part of the institution's total assets.

The newspaper said the study showed the market value of all Boys Town securities was $226.4 million at the end of 1972. The securities included U.S. government and foreign government bonds, corporation bonds, preferred stock, public utilities stock, bank stock and miscellaneous investments.

The World-Herald said the industrial stocks were the most valuable of Boys Town's holdings. Stock values were figured for yearend 1972 because that is the most recent Boys Town reporting period to the U.S. Internal Revenue Service.

The study showed a few stocks whose market value was less than the book value. However, the newspaper said most of the stocks were worth more than their book value.

In 1971, using book values, Boys Town reported $209 million net worth. In 1972, the institution for 700 homeless boys reported net worth of $217 million.

The newspaper said the study did not include Boys Town's real estate holdings, including 1,500 acres of tax-exempt land on which the institution and its 50 buildings are situated west of Omaha.

Value of land reported to the IRS in 1971 was $1.5 million, the newspaper said, and value of buildings was $14.2 million, less $8.7 million depreciation.

A Boys Town spokesman said he was unable to say who estimated the value of the Boys Town land and buildings.

Nixon To Meet Gabon Leader

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will meet on Thursday with President Bernard Bongo of Gabon, the White House announced Monday.

Bongo, who has headed the African nation since 1967, is in the United States to receive an honorary degree from Duquesne University. This is his first trip to Washington.

SKY HIGH . . . I mean eggs for 83 cents a dozen!

Children who read Dr. Seuss know that "Funny things are everywhere." And seven-year-old Jus Tina Buckner can make funny things happen wherever she goes with her rubber-faced expressions.

Tina, armed with an instamatic camera, accompanies her mother to the classes each week.

Therapy Comes To The Tavern

New York — Sigmund Freud peers down over the scene, his face impassive, calm, understanding.

Charts of manias and phobias are pinned to one wall. A series of framed Rohrschach tests decorate another.

And a pretty 30-year-old woman in a colorful patchwork pantsuit, her brunet hair flaring down over her back, sits at the piano bar, spotlighted and holding a microphone.

But instead of singing "Melancholy Baby," she launches into a psychological discussion of sexual impotence one-night affairs, orgasms and how to establish a long-term relationship.

Manhattan's newest nightspot, Group Therapy, is, frankly, a gimmick catering to this town's fascination with all things psychiatric.

And since owner Jerry Lepsen, a husky 45-year-old restaurateur, changed the name of his bar-restaurant from Pal Joey's to Group Therapy earlier this year, he says he has increased his take by at least 50%.

"We're very serious here," Lepsen said seriously. "This is not a game. If I wanted a comedian, I would have hired one."

Instead Lepsen has a running ad in the New York Times seeking "psychiatrists or psychologists" with a "humorous, show-biz style, interesting . . ."

He has received nearly 50 responses, and chosen a stable of about 20 analysts who rotate their services — for a $50-a-night fee — to conduct the "informative rap sessions," as Jepsen calls them.

One recent Friday — sessions are conducted twice nightly, Wednesday through Saturday — the resident psychiatrist was Merle Troop, a specialist in sex therapy, which apparently is the main interest of those who drop by to participate in group therapy.

Patrons are provided with pencils and a pad of paper and encouraged to write out their questions so Dr. Kroop can answer them.

"How do you best handle a long-distance love affair?" was the rather timid first question. "Find someone else," she replied bluntly. "Letters and phone calls don't count. We need the personal touch."

But soon, the lovely doctor was answering questions about orgasms, impotence and prostitution.

"Sex is too often seen as a performance.

. . . Are there any men here who want to share their experiences of impotence with us?"

A stony silence met her suggestion, and then a voice from the background offered, "I'd like to try it."

Meanwhile, a group of young girls with long hair and dressed in skimpy halter tops watched the proceedings carefully from the bar, and, toward the end of the hour-long "session," vehemently began to castigate the idea that prostitutes were frigid man-haters.

"A lot of people stand by quietly and listen for a while, then really get into it," Lepsen said. "And even if a person is too shy to participate, he can learn a lot from people when they reveal themselves even a little bit here."

Lepsen unabashedly admits his first aim in launching group therapy was to make money. His midtown restaurant has a brisk lunchtime trade, but like most establishments in the area, falters in the evening.

He carries out his theme in his menu, with "mindbender" salads, "brainfood" (scampi, shrimp, lobster), "schizophrenic" entrees (chicken and ribs, chicken and shrimp) and a "hypnosis" wine list.

Despite the suppressed giggles and self-conscious questions, Dr. Kroop makes it clear she doesn't consider her performance "show biz."

"I have the feeling that a lot of people are uninformed about sexual participation and psychiatry," she said after her session.

"I feel maybe this way I can reach people at a grass-roots level so people can identify. We all share many of the same problems, you know."

At group therapy, you can share, watch or just have a beer. Wasn't that what the neighborhood tavern was all about anyway?

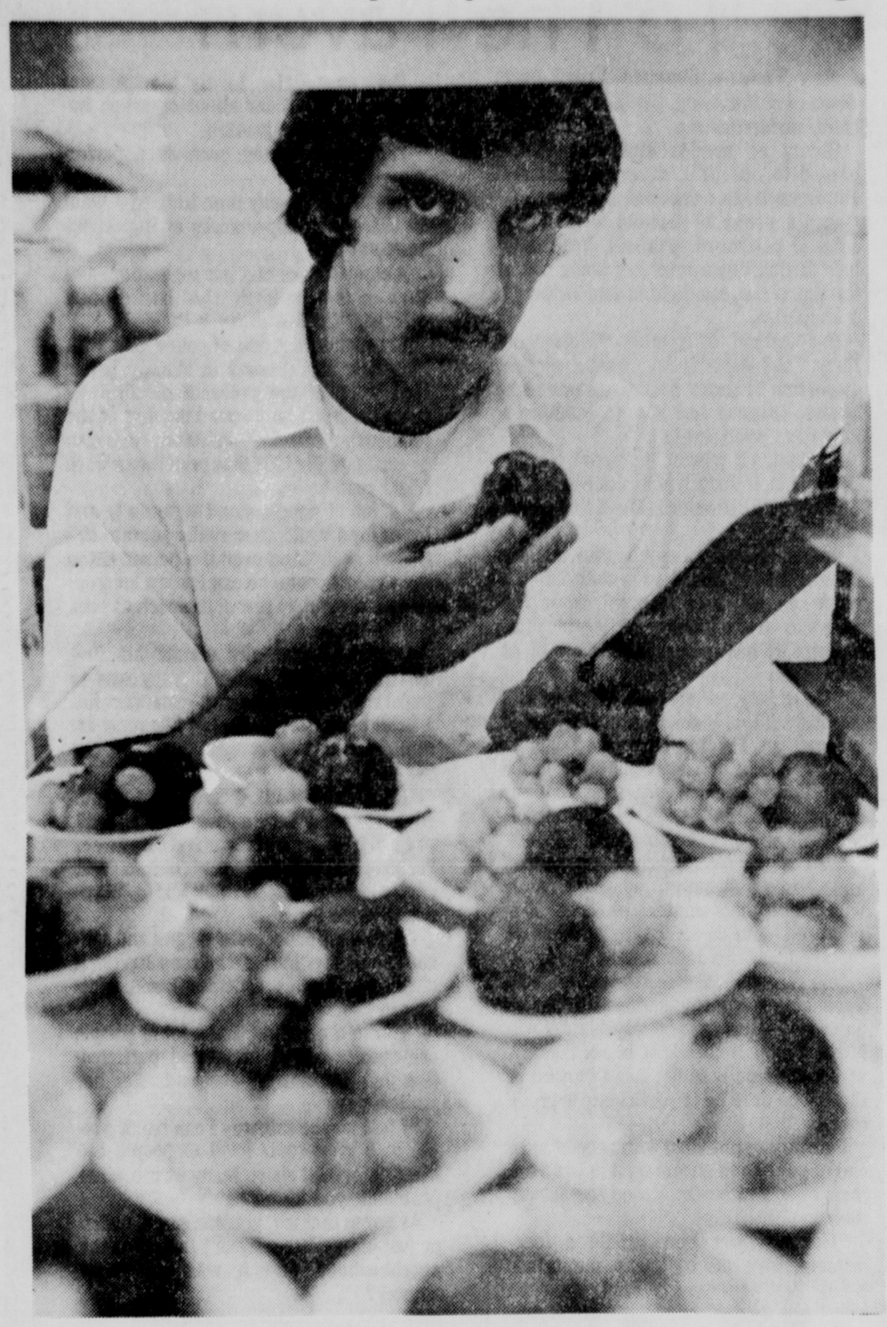
He Enjoys Being A Man In A Woman's World



HENY . . . checks fruit quality.

By JERRY IDOUX
Star Staff Writer

John Heny doesn't mind being a man in a woman's world. In fact, he enjoys it.

A foods and nutrition major at Indiana University in Pennsylvania, Heny is one of the few males throughout the country who is specializing in what is commonly known as Home Economics.

Heny, who is working this summer at the UNL Cather-Pound food services said, "where else could I be the only male in a class of 50 or 60 women?"

As an intern under the Association of College and University Housing Officers (ACUHO) program, Heny will complete eight weeks of duty at UNL July 27. After that he'll take a month's vacation and head back to school to finish his degree.

The AUCHO program (which Heny describes as an excellent job reference) is sponsored by various universities in the hope of luring promising undergraduates into university food management levels after graduation, the only male in among 10 or 12 students in this year's program said.

To date Heny has served in most of Cather-Pound's departments as an observer, worker and supervisor.

Most recently he supervised the entire dining hall operation for a day.

When Heny started college he had no idea that he would wind up in the Home Economics department.

"I started out as a pre-med student," he said, "but I didn't do so well."

So he went around to the various departments to see what they had to offer before he chose a field for certain.

"At that time jobs were hard for everybody to get," Heny recalled. "I talked to most of the departments and the home economics area seemed to be the one that offered the most opportunity. So I took it."

"To be honest with you, the first year I didn't like it. But after that I really began to enjoy it."

Many opportunities await people entering the food management level, Heny said, especially men who opt to go into the field.

"There are a lot of people who would prefer to have a man in charge of their food service operations," Heny said. "Mostly because they feel that a man can handle the stress better than a woman."

"That's not my opinion though," he quickly added.

For the simple reason that there aren't many men in management levels, Heny sees an open field of opportunity laying ahead of him.

The experience that he has gained in Lincoln will help Heny much in the future, he said.

Besides the impression that the internship will have on his resume, his stay at the university has taught him a lot about dealing with people.

"In management you have to deal with all types of people," he said. "To effectively communicate your ideas and instructions you have to be a short of jack of all trades. In many cases you'll have to demonstrate a knowledge of first aid, psychology and personnel management."

Despite the seeming demands, Heny says that he hasn't run into any real snags during the program.

"I've really enjoyed my stay in Lincoln," he said. "The people have been really nice and I've learned a lot from them."

"And I think that some of them have learned from me, too," he ventured.

With his Lincoln experience and a diploma under his belt, Heny intends to go to graduate school (in foods and nutrition of course), probably in the Midwest.

"I'd like to go to graduate school in the Midwest because of the change in atmosphere. This is the first time I've been west of Ohio," he said.

After grad school Heny intends to get a job in a university food management program.

"I want to work in the university environment," he said. "I think I would get bogged down outside of it. I want to stay with the situation (on the campus), keep moving, progressing, and taking courses."

While most of his experience has been in the residence hall dining room realm, Heny said that he would like to eventually do "union type work."

"I feel it's more interesting. You're restricted more in a dining hall because of prices and budgets. But in union work you have more flexibility with menus and services."

Finally, Heny said, he would like to serve as the university dean or head of a home economics department.

Maybe in that capacity he'll convince more men to break the female barrier and venture into the home economics field.

Opening lead - ten of clubs.

Let's assume you're in six hearts and West leads a club. The object is to make 12 tricks without seeing the adverse cards, though you know from the bidding that East surely has the king of spades and that relying on a spade finesse will lead to disaster.

The situation you face is by no means uncommon. The problem is to find a way of playing the hand so as to avoid the luck element ordinarily associated with a finesse.

In the present case you start with the knowledge that East has the A-K of clubs, and actually this is all you need to know to assure yourself of a happy ending.

Let's assume you cover the ten of clubs with the jack and draw two rounds of trumps, ending in dummy. Then, with malice aforethought, you ruff a club, re-enter dummy with a diamond, and ruff the third round of clubs.

Next you cash the ace of diamonds, ruff a diamond, and as a result of your machinations this is now the position:

When you lead the queen of clubs and discard a spade on it, East wins it with the ace and finds himself at the end of his rope. He is well and truly end-played. Your generosity in conceding a club trick that you obviously could have prevented him from making pays excellent dividends.

Music Forms Offered

More than 90% of the nation's elementary schools offer some form of music instruction to students, according to an American Music conference study. Music appreciation is the most popular aspect of programming, both in terms of students involved and the number of schools with programs.

Mother Wants To Keep Grad's New Nose Quiet

DEAR ABBY: For my high school graduation, my parents gave me a new nose. I had it done last week, and even tho it's still swollen, I just love it!

I am going east to college in the fall. I will be meeting lots of new kids, and my mother told me that I shouldn't tell anybody I had my nose done. I told her I hadn't planned on wearing a sign saying: "I had my nose done," but if it comes up in a conversation, I am not going to lie about it.

She said it would be foolish for me to admit it, and she asked me to promise her I wouldn't tell anybody.

I respect my mother's opinion, and I know she means the best for me, but I just can't make her that kind of promise. This is the first really serious conflict we have ever had. Am I wrong? Or is she?

NOSE JOB

DEAR NOSE JOB: Mother usually nose best, but not this time.

DEAR ABBY: I sent 32 "R. S. V. P." invitations and received only 6 responses!

Obviously a hostess has to know how many guests to prepare for. After waiting two weeks, would it be appropriate for me to telephone those from whom I have not heard and ask if they are coming or not?

This strikes me as being somewhat pushy and I am reluctant to do it.

FRUSTRATED HOSTESS

DEAR FRUSTRATED: On the outside chance that some of them did not receive your invitation, telephone them.

DEAR ABBY: I am very much in love with Steve and he is very much in love with me. We plan to be married in September. There is only one problem: I am also very much in love with my job.

I'm a secretary and have been with the same company for five years. I intend to keep on working after we are married. I guess you could say I am career-minded.

Steve says before we get married I must promise that I will not work over eight hours a day, and I'll not work at all on Saturdays. Right now I work more than eight hours many days, and I work on Saturdays, too.

Steve doesn't think a woman can be married and have a career, too. I disagree. Abby, do you think it's fair for a man to ask a woman to give up something that means as much to her as my job means to me? I love Steve and don't want to lose him, but I also love this job. Please settle this.

STEVE'S GIRL

DEAR GIRL: It's all right for a girl to like her job, but if she is "in love" with her job, her love life with a real live man is in trouble. I don't think Steve's requests are unreasonable, but if you do, hold off those wedding bells. I hear a clinker in the belfry.

DEAR ABBY: Is there a way for a couple to be assured they will get the sex child they want? I have heard there is a foolproof method for getting a boy or a girl, whichever the couple prefers. If you know how this can be accomplished with positively no chance of failure, please respond at once, and I will send $25 to any charity you designate.

FATHER OF SIX DAUGHTERS

DEAR FATHER: Yes. ADOPT! Send $25 to your local Planned Parenthood chapter.

DEAR ABBY: Grandma wrote that she was embarrassed because her grandson bragged so much about his war record, even saying that he had won 11 purple hearts. She should use an old Jewish saying next time "Junior" starts to boast:

Beat Egg Price Rises

Start A Community Chicken Flock

By PATRICIA McCormack

New York (UPI) — If two dozen hens lay an egg a piece a day, as they should, in a week that comes to 14 dozen eggs — according to my old math.

The high price of eggs and the forecast of even steeper ones brings this thought of hens into focus.

Just as inflation gardens help cut the high of the food bill, can a hen help, too? Eggs provide protein.

In most urban areas health codes and zoning laws prohibit the keeping of chickens. The same for many suburban areas. So the first step if you're interested in hens for egg purpose is to get the restrictions lifted.

One way: Find about a dozen families in the neighborhood similarly interested. Chicken-raising people I talked to said this is good on at least one count: for efficiency, you'll probably have to chip in with that many families to support a community chicken flock.

Also, if you're all in this together there will be less chance of complaints from neighbors — usually a powerful reason for restrictions on keeping chickens.

My authorities on hens and eggs include Bill Quinn, political adminstrative assistant to Steward Mott (the heir to a GM and Mott apple juice fortune), and Peter Dunlop, of Horticulture House in Manhattan.

Quinn helps look after Mott's penthouse inflation garden in New York City. The big garden also has a chicken coop. At the moment, according to Quinn, two hens who dutifully put forth one egg each a day. They are believed to be the only chickens in Manhattan and certainly the only Park Avenue penthouse hens.

Dunlop once was county agricultural agent and knows all about chicken-raising. He recommended that neophytes in chicken-keeping contact their county extension or agricultural agents for advice and-or pamphlets on the subject from Uncle Sam.

The Park Avenue hens are kept in a coop that runs four-by-six feet and five feet tall. They eat cornmeal and drink water left on plates all day.

The coop and hen place has a metal floor which is hosed down and chicken droppings are used in the comost heap. Some eggshells are broken up and the chickens eat them for roughage. Other eggshells are used in the compost heap. The penthouse hen eggs are expensive on a per egg basis but that's not the point.

"They are very fresh," Quinn said.

Dunlop suggested that where and when zoning permits it, neighbors keep a flock of two dozen chickens. You fence in the chicken run and coop. You may need flooring throughout. The fence keeps out burrowing animals such as woodchucks, and weasels.

Commercial feed is bought from Purina or some other supplier. Dunlop believes grouping up like this, a collection of families probably could supply eggs at lower than current costs.

Robinson's Street Proposal Hits Roadblocks

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

City Councilman John Robinson's proposal to bring locally funded street projects under federal regulations garnered widespread support during the council's first night council meeting Monday.

But, right from the start, Robinson's ordinance ran into some legal roadblocks.

City Atty. Dick Wood told city lawmakers that the ordinance is "an unauthorized delegation of legislative authority by the council."

And last week Asst. City Atty. Charles Humble said the law department "feels there are serious problems both as to form and legality in the ordinance as drafted."

Robinson, who drafted the ordinance and is a graduate of the University of Nebraska College of Law, challenged both opinions.

'No Arguments'

Wood emphasized he had "no arguments with the policy," but said he found fault with "the legal means used in the ordinance to implement this policy."

Robinson cited the council's April 16 resolution which directed the Public Works Department to consider the social, economic and environmental impact for all highway projects, such as the Northeast Radial.

Robinson said that resolution "shows that, theoretically, at least, we're already complying with this."

The ordinance specifically provides for the:

—Application of federal standards to the planning design, construction and maintenance of locally funded street projects.

—Application of federal standards in relocating persons and businesses affected by such projects.

—Maximum citizen input into all phases of the planning process.

One of many appearing in support of the measure, Roger Schluntz, said the ordinance "appears to be a refinement and possibly an enlargement of the resolution passed Aug. 16."

Specificity

Robert Guenzel, representing the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, urged the council to spell out specific federal guidelines which would apply to local planning projects.

Lugging up a cardboard box full of thickly bound volumes full of "PPM's" — Policy and Procedure Manual guidelines of the Department of Transportation — Guenzel quipped, "I've never seen so much gobbledygook in my life."

He said it was "perfectly ridiculous" to expect citizens to understand all those federal guidelines spelled out in those documents.

He urged the council to spell out what federal gudelines would be followed by the city in each category of construction.

Public Works Director Bob Obering agreed that the PPM's do not lend themselves to easy interpretation, adding "We don't have a full set in this building."

Problems

Obering suggested there are a number of problems inherent in the ordinance as drafted and suggested that the council indefinitely postpone the measure.

He urged the council to pass a resolution directing the administration to take steps to develop an action plan.

That action plan would provide for increased citizen participation in highway planning and ensure that full consideration be given to economic, social and environmental effects of highway projects.

He noted that the city is updating the operations plan, which maps out procedures to be followed in systems planning.

A November completion date would be pushed for in forming the Action Plan, he said.

Big Banks Increasing Prime Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — Numerous more large banks, including the Bank of America, the nation's largest commercial bank, announced Monday they were raising their prime interest rates to 8¾ per cent, a record high.

New York's First National City Bank on Friday began the latest upward move, the 11th this year. Citibank quickly was joined by several other banks.

Among banks announcing increases Monday effective immediately, were New York's Chase Manhattan, Manufacturers Hanover, and Franklin National banks and Mellon Bank of Pittsburgh.

The prime rate is the lending fee banks charge their largest corporate customers. While the prime is not directly tied to small business and consumer loans, its movements often reflect trends in interest rates in general.

Economists say the soaring prime rate, which began the year at 6 per cent, has been caused by a combination of factors.

Elevator Falls; 13 Die

Chesterfield, England (UPI) — A coal elevator taking 28 men to work broke down Monday and "dropped like a brick," smashing into the bottom of a quarter-mile mine shaft.

Officials at Chesterfield Royal Hospital reported 13 of the horrified workers died in the plunge at the Markham Colliery and the other 15 were seriously injured.

"It was terrible, absolutely terrible," said one miner who witnessed the rescue. "Bodies were all on top of one another. I thank God. I could have been one of them."

Robert Dunn, area director of the National Coal Board, said the winding mechanism of the elevator broke and the cage plummeted to the shaft floor with the 28 men trapped inside.

Dunn said miners already underground were the first to reach the smashed cage, tearing at the twisted metal to free their workmates from the wreckage.

5 Communities Get Grants For Waste Projects

Washington (UPI) — Waste treatment grants totaling $94,190 have been given five Nebraska communities, according to Rep. Dave Martin, R-Neb.

Martin said the Environmental Protection Agency notified him of grant approvals for waste treatment projects in Ong, Sutherland, Rockville, Stromsburg and Ericson.

The grants include: Ong — $26,100 for construction of a new aeration waste treatment plant, life station and interceptor, total estimated cost $35,300; Sutherland — $24,370 for improvements to existing lagoon, total cost $40,000; Rockville — $18,000 to construct lagoon and interceptor, total cost $26,000.

Stromsburg — $14,470 to construct new lift station and interceptor sewer, total cost $19,300; Ericson — $11,250 to construct lagoon and interceptor, total cost $17,000.

Police Seek Thief Of Barn

HESHBON, Pa. (AP) — Alex Johnston has no barn door to lock. In fact he has no barn.

It had been two weeks since he had visited his barn — actually a three-bay garage some distance from his home. When he did stop by, he found only a few remnants of the structure.

State police are looking for a thief who carted the building away piece by piece.

Kent Witness Receives Miami Prostitution Fine

MIAMI (AP) — Mary Vecchio, who was photographed kneeling over a victim in the Kent State University shootings, has pleaded no contest to a charge of offering to commit prostitution.

Miss Vecchio, 17, was fined $50 Saturday when she appeared in a Miami court and was released.

Police said Miss Vecchio was arrested Friday night by two Miami detectives who charged she had solicited them and accepted $20 for prostitution.

Miss Vecchio was a 14-year-old runaway at the time of the Kent State shootings in 1970. Her parents who live in Miami recognized her from the photograph and traced her to Indianapolis and she was returned home.

She returned to her 9th grade classes at a junior high school here, but later dropped out. Miss Vecchio has had several brushes with the law since and in 1971 was sent briefly to a home for wayward youngsters.

Board To Meet

The Nebraska Library Commission Board will meet Friday at 10:30 a.m. at 1420 P.

Langemach, Roper New Prosecutors

City Atty. Dick Wood announced to the City Council Monday night the appointment of Norm Langemach Jr. as chief prosecutor on the city attorney's staff.

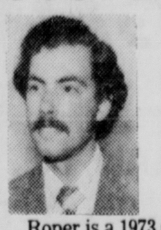
Wood also announced Monday the appointment of Dana Roper, 26, as an assistant prosecutor. He will join the staff Aug. 6.

Langemach, 32, succeeds Jerry Nelson, who resigned that post to take a similar job with the district attorney's office in Colorado Springs.

Both Langemach and Roper are life-long residents of Lincoln.

The new chief prosecutor is a graduate of Southeast High, received his undergraduate degree from the University of Nebraska and his law degree in 1968 from the University of Nebraska College of Law.

In June, 1968, Langemach joined the city attorney's staff as an assistant prosecutor.



Norman Langemach
New Chief Prosecutor

Roper is a 1973 graduate of the University of Nebraska College of Law. He received his undergraduate degree from NU in 1970.

He is currently chief legal counsel with the Nebraska Public Services Commission.

Transportation Planning Information Available

In an attempt to make citizens more aware of the transportation planning process, City Planning Director Doug Brogden said Monday the planning department is making available information concerning the transportation plan in the Lincoln Metropolitan Area.

Brogden noted that his department is updating the yearly renewable roster of individuals and organizations interested in receiving such information.

"We are asking the public to request from us information, schedules, reports pertaining to continuing transportation planning in the Lincoln area," he said.

All agendas and minutes of meetings of the Technical Committee, Officials Committee, Goals and Policies Committee, City-County Planning Commission, City Council and County Board, when such meetings relate to the transportation system planning, will be made available. Those interested in receiving such information should contact the planning department.

Charges Denied By Ziebarth

WILCOX, Neb. (AP)—A Democratic candidate for the 3rd District congressional seat denied Monday that he has violated federal campaign statutes.

Wayne Ziebarth of Wilcox, responding to Republican charges that he had violated a 1971 act, said that he has met with his attorneys and decided that up to the present time he has not been required to file campaign reports as required by the law.

The charges were lodged by Dwight Dam of Valentine, 3rd District GOP chairman.

Dam said he has written the U.S. attorney general to seek an investigation of Ziebarth's candidacy.

"Ziebarth hasn't filed a single campaign report with the clerk of the House of Representatives, although he announced his candidacy in March and has been campaigning extensively throughout the 3rd District," Dam said.

He claimed that under federal statutes Ziebarth should have filed reports on March 10 and June 10.

Ziebarth contended that the federal statute says that a candidate must have a political organization before he is required to file reports.

The former state senator said he formed an organization in July and would file the proper reports with the clerk of the House in September.

Nixon, Tanaka Meeting Should Hit Many Issues

©The New York Times

Washington — Following are the main subjects expected to be discussed by President Nixon and Japanese Premier Kakuei Tanaka Tuesday and Wednesday.

Trade — Fulfilling a pledge made last September to Nixon, the Japanese government has sharply reduced the huge $4.2 billion imbalance in trade with the United States. But although this will ease a major point of friction, trade relations have been marked by continual problems, most recently the export curbs suddenly instituted by Washington on soybeans, lumber and scrap metal, which are major Japanese imports.

Tanaka will press in the meetings for a guarantee giving Japan a favored position wherein the U.S. has to cut exports. Nixon is expected to give assurances on this issue, and to continue to ask for lifting of remaining restrictions in the Japanese market on some American exports such as computers.

Energy — Tanaka is expected to urge Nixon to give support to joint Japanese-American ventures to exploit the Soviet Union's oil and natural gas reserves in Siberia. Nixon may raise with Tanaka the need for oil-consuming nations to take a joint stand with oil-producing nations to keep the Middle East nations from adopting a divide-and-conquer policy, thereby driving prices up.

Tanaka is expected to say that Japan supports this approach as long as it is not interpreted as an anti-Arab position.

Atlantic Charter — Tanaka plans to ask Nixon for an explanation of the U.S. proposed "New Atlantic Charter," to which Japan is invited to participate. Japan is anxious for a broader agreement with Europe and U.S., particularly in political and economic areas.

Southeast Asia — Nixon will discuss the situation in Indochina and the prospects for economic aid to North Vietnam and the other nations of the area if peace is ever restored to Southeast Asia. Japan, with major economic interests in South Vietnam, has already begun discussions with North Vietnam on establishing dipiomatic relations and Tanaka will want to discuss the possibility of an international consortium to aid Indochina.

Defense — there are no real problems in this area, although Nixon may suggest that Japan pay more for the upkeep of American bases in Japan in a way that reflects favorably on the balance-of-payments situation. Tanaka is expected to affirm his country's desire for a continued American military presence in the area.

Communist Relations — Nixon will give Tanaka a rundown on his meeting last month with Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Soviet Communist party leader, whom Tanaka will visit in October. The two men will also discuss their countries' widening relations with China and the outlook for expanded commercial ties with Peking.

Senators Back Limit

Washington (AP) — During a Senate roll call vote Monday Sens. Roman Hruska and Carl Curtis, both Nebraska Republicans, voted with the majority passing a bill fixing limits on campaign spending and contributions and establishing an independent enforcement agency. The Senate vote was 82-8 in favor of the bill.

Corn, Egg Prices Soar

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices farmers received for corn and eggs from mid-June to mid-July were their highest in more than two decades, Agriculture Department statistics showed Monday.

During that period a freeze was on prices beyond that level in the farmer-to-consumer chain.

A sharp decline in soybean prices—still double what they were a year ago but down a third from June's record—went against other trends compiled by the Crop Reporting Board.

Corn prices went to their highest point in 25 years, although still short of the record by 43 cents. The index for all feed grains and hay rose 63 per cent.

Egg prices rose to their highest level in 20 years with just a 0.7-cent difference from last month.

Higher prices for hogs, potatoes, milk, broiler chickens and corn offset the decline in the soybean price, the board said.

Chavez Orders Grape Strike

DELANO, Calif. (AP) — Cesar Chavez ordered his United Farm Workers union to take to the picket lines Monday against table grape growers here, birthplace of his agricultural union and site of its most historic success.

The union estimated it had 2,000 pickets at vineyards owned by 29 growers whose contracts with the UFW expired at midnight Sunday. No serious incidents were reported.

Chavez called the strike and a boycott of all table grapes after negotiations broke down hours before the expiration time.

The union's membership, once more than 40,000, has fallen to 6,500 with the end of the Delano contract and the loss of many workers to the Teamsters union.

The UFW contracts signed with Delano grape growers in July 1970, after five years of strikes and boycotts, were hailed at the time as a breakthrough in unionizing farm workers.

But the Teamsters this year began competing against the UFW. It signed contracts with 30 Southern California grape growers when UFW contracts expired last spring.

The Teamsters have predicted they will win the Delano contracts. There was no word on when they and the growers would bargain.

Kern County sheriff's deputies said about 500 carloads of UFW members had set up picket lines in Delano, and an equal number reported in the nearby Lamont-Arvin area. Four or five pickets were arrested there on investigation of trespassing, deputies said.

Delano, in the central San Joaquin Valley, is California's main table-grape growing area.

The growers said the strike would affect 4,000 to 5,000 workers.

Pay for field workers here doubled during the UFW contract to just over $2 an hour. But pay was not the major issue in the current negotiations. Chavez said talks were snagged on labor camp conditions, pesticide control, grievance procedures, the right to boycott and union recognition as well as hiring hall procedures.

Harry Keaton, attorney for the growers, said, "The collapse was essentially related to one overriding issue. The UFW demanded to have absolute control and domination over who was going to work in the grape industry."

The growers said in a statement that negotiations failed because the UFW refused to let growers hire "their regular seniority work force because many of these workers had shown a preference for the Teamsters union."

The growers said they will "proceed with the grape harvest without a UFW contract and will pay wages which are competitive with others being paid in the Delano area."

King, Queen Of 1990s

Omaha — Notes from the 67th annual Nebraska Men's State Amateur Golf Tournament at Omaha's Highland Country Club:

One couldn't help but conclude that if breeding means anything, the champions of Nebraska amateur golf, both men's and women's, may have been present at Highland for Saturday's final round.

Romping around the clubhouse area with golf ball in hand was Bobby Astleford, not quite two years old and the son of eight-time Nebraska Men's State Amateur champion Bob Astleford and wife Irene.

Not old enough yet to romp, but still present in the arms of her mother Sally, was Heidi Ann Borner, whose father Charlie was in the process of winning his third state title.

Heidi Ann was five months old on Thursday, the day her father shot his worst round of the tournament, a 77.

When young Bobby Astleford tossed his new golf ball into a nearby garbage can, some observers wondered if he wasn't trying to tell Dad something about his golf game after the 43-year-old Astleford had posted scores of 80 and 83 for his final two rounds.

The Waiting Scene Changes

As Astleford and another former champion, Dean Wilson Jr. of Omaha, waited for the final groups to finish, Wilson remarked, "Bob, do you remember when the others used to wait for us to finish?"

"Yep, I sure do," responded Astleford, "Things have sure changed."

The top finishers all are under 30 and the only real old-timer in the top 10 was Ed Smith of Lincoln, the city's seniors champion who tied for seventh place in the state tourney.

Forrest Roper of Omaha, who finished in a five-way tie for 11th, became the first black golfer to qualify for the Nebraska Match Play Championship which will be held next summer in Alliance.

Roper with a 306 total would have been in a tie for seventh at 305 had it not been for a scorecard error.

Roper shot a 75 in Thursday's second round, but an error on his scorecard made it total 76 and after he signed it without catching the mistake, he was stuck with the higher score.

Recalling Compton Incident

That brought back memories of the Gen. K. K. Compton incident in the 1970 tournament at Omaha's Happy Hollow Country Club where Compton was allowed to change his card after he had signed for a higher total than he actually had.

The 13th, a 505-yard, par-5 hole, proved particularly tough for the threesome of Borner, Don Bridge and Lee Shaw in Thursday's second round where they took a total of 25 strokes, 10 over par.

Borner had a double-bogey-7, Bridge a triple-bogey-8 and Shaw took a 10.

Even though he's now living in Topeka, Kan., where he's won two of three Kansas State Amateur titles since moving from Fairbury, Frank Rose always seems to show up at the Nebraska tourney which he won in 1969 at the Norfolk Country Club.

Ken Deckert, the newcomer to Omaha who nobody knew for the first two days, could become the second homebuilder to dominate Nebraska amateur golf in recent years.

Deckert, who has been playing the game for only 4½ years but who is sure to be a title contender as long as he stays in Nebraska, was in the home building business with his brothers before coming to Omaha from Blue Springs, Mo. He has hopes of getting into that business in Omaha. That's also Astleford's business.

BIBBY GETS NO-HITTER

—DEDICATED PLAYER—

Eckman Likes Softball Action

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

One of the more dedicated players in the Men's AAA Fast-Pitch Softball League is Falstaff's Ned Eckman.

During his first 13 years in the league Eckman commuted from Tecumseh, Cozad and Fairbury to play for manager and coach Bill Ketterer.

At Tecumseh one summer Eckman ran the summer recreation program and coached Junior Legion baseball besides traveling to Lincoln to play softball.

Now the Pawnee City native lives about a mile from Ballard Field, where he is one of the league's top hitters.

"I'm not a big home run hitter, but just try to make contact with the ball and not strike out a lot," Eckman says.

However, Eckman doesn't have to worry about hitting too many home runs because he has three teammates who are known for hitting home runs. They are Ken Forbes, Jerry Motz and Rick Boals.

And with pitchers Lefty Sheary and Jay Phipps, Eckman has been able to play with a winner for several years.

Falstaff, which was King's until this season, has won the city title the past few years and is the defending state champion.

"Bill (Ketterer) deserves a lot of credit for the team's success," Eckman says. "The players all respect Bill and he usually knows what to do at the right time."

It was at a tournament in Filley 16 years ago that Ketterer first saw Eckman, who was playing for Pawnee City. After Ketterer talked to Eckman, the righthanded second baseman started driving to Lincoln to play.

Eckman taught and coached three years at Tecumseh, seven at Cozad and three at Fairbury before moving to Lincoln and going into the food service field.

The year after Eckman left Fairbury, Bob Siegel was a freshman and a starter on the Jeffs' basketball team. And Eckman coached basketball and golf.

During the summer months Eckman was able to play softball for Ketterer and eventually obtained his Masters degree from Nebraska. He received his Bachelors from Peru State.

"Right now our main concern is trying to defend our city title," Eckman says.

"We started off slow because we didn't have a lot of players like Rick (Boals) and it took awhile for us to get our timing worked out."

Rangers Top Oakland, 6-0

. . . THIRTEEN STRIKEOUTS

Oakland (UPI) — Towering Jim Bibby, whose career was threatened by major back surgery only three years ago, fired the first no-hitter in Texas ranger history and the fourth of the American League Season Monday night when he beat the Oakland A's 60, with an overpowering 13-strikeout performance.

Bibby, in the American League only six weeks, was never in serious trouble despite giving up six walks. But it took three excellent fielding plays to preserve his stunning no-hit triumph over the world champions, who were dumped into a virtual first-place tie in the AL West with Kansas City.

Shortstop Jim Fregosi sprinted to his left on Ted Kubiak's third inning grounder to prevent what looked like a sure hit. Then in the sixth, centerfielder Vic Harris made a fine running catch on another Kubiak shot. With two down in the eighth, defensive shortstop replacement Pete MacKanin grabbed a short hop liner off the bat off the bat of speedy Bill North to throw him out.

Oakland got runners as far as second base twice and once as far as third. times. In the sixth, Bibby walked Bert Campaneris, who moved to second on a ground ball. In the next frame, walks to Reggie Jackson and Gene Tenace put A's on first and second with only one out, but Bibby retired Billy Conigliaro on a pop foul and then fanned pinch-hitter Jay Johnstone. In the ninth, Sal Bando walked, stole second and moved to third on an infield out.

Steve Busby of Kansas City pitched the first no-hitter of the AL season on April 27 and Nolan Ryan of California pitched no-hitters on May 15 and July 15.

Bibby gave up his sixth walk to Bando leading off the ninth. With Reggie Jackson at bat, Bando stole second. Jackson fanned on a 3-2 pitch, Bibby's 13th whiff of the night. Deron Johnson grounded out on the first pitch to second baseman Dave Nelson, and then Bibby wrapped up his brilliant performance by getting Gene Tenace to pop out to Nelson in short right on a 1-1 pitch.

Texas scored five of its runs off loser Vida Blue, 9-7, in the first inning on Jeff Burroughs' grand slam homer and a solo shot by the next batter, Bill Sudakis. The Rangers had loaded the bases on a walk, Ted Kubiak's error and Alex Johnson's infield single. The homer was the 17th for Burroughs, who has hit three in this series and two grand slams in the last five days—the only slams in Texas' two-year history.

Bibby, a 28-year old, 6-5, 230-pound right-hander, was picked up by Texas in a trade with the St. Louis Cardinals on June 6. He threw a one-hitter against the Kansas City Royals on June 29th, as Fran Healy doubled in the sixth inning.

Four Americans Post Wins

Helsinki (UPI) — Jim Bolding, Chuck Smith, Dwight Stones and Al Feuerbach were the American winners Monday on the first day of a two-day track and field meeting which saw a couple of New Zealanders dominate the distance events.

Bolding, of Oklahoma City, and a former Oklahoma State standout took the 400-meter hurdles in a comfortable :49.2 seconds to win from Finland's Ari Salin who clocked :51.4.

Smith, of Mackeesport, Pa., won the 100 meters in :10.4, one-tenth ahead of local sprinter Raimo Vilen.

Stones, who set a world record in Munich in the recent match against West Germany, won the high jump with a leap of 7-½.

Feuerbach, the world shot put record-holder from San Jose, Calif., never was extended and won his speciality with a routine toss of 67-4, against the 63-8 of second-placed Finn, Matti Yrjoelae.

The highlight of the day however, came in the 5,000 meters when Dick Quaz of New Zealand upset double olympic champion Lasse Viren of Finland in 13:27.2.

Briton Dave Bedford, who announced before the race he would try and add the world record to the 10,000-meter mark he set in London recently, complained of leg pains and finished a disappointing fifth.

Bedford and Viren made all the pace with Quaz running comfortably in the pack. On the gun lap the Finnish policeman tried to break clear, but Quaz stayed with him and accelerated away with 20 yards to go. Viren was timed in 13:28.8 with Bedford a further 10 seconds back.

Another Kiwi, Rod Dixon, took the 1,500 meters in 3:37.5 to win from world steeplechase record holder Ben Jipcho of Kenya who was a further three-tenths of a second back.

Dave Wottle, the Olympic 800-meter champion from Bowling Green, and now in the Air force finished in a tie for third place with New Zealand's John Walker in 3:38.0, while Rick Wohlhuter, the world 880-yard record-holder from Chicago, was seventh in 3:39.2.

Disappointed at the failure of the 5,000-meter field to produce a world record, the 20,000 crowd cheered wildly when local javelin thrower Hannu Sittonen got off a toss of 308-1 inch which was just two-eight short of the world record held by Russia's Janis Lusis. It did better the national record of Jorma Kinnunen by four-feet and was a 1973 season best.

Seppo Hovinen was second with Bill Schmidt of the Pacific Coast Club third with a heave of 266-10.

John Powell of Cupertino, Calif., threw the discus 204-0 to finish second behind Pentti Kahma, while Terry Musikka of Springfield, Pa., clocked :47.2 in finishing fifth in the 400 meters behind Markku Kukkoaho of Finland who clocked :45.7.

Chisox Blitz Twins

Bloomington, Minn. (AP) — The Chicago White Sox erupted for four runs in the sixth inning to give pitcher Stan Bahsen all the cushion he needed in blitzing Minnesota 9-1 Monday.

Bahnsen, in running his record to 14-10, throttled the Twins on eight hits. The loser was Jim Kaat, 11-10, who was routed in the sixth as the White Sox combined triples by Jerry Hairston and Ken Henderson, Bill Melton's single and reliever Ray Corbin's wild pitch into their four-run inning and a 6-0 lead.

Chuck Brinkman's double, the White sox' third and fourth triples by John Jeter and Tony Muser, and Pat Kelly's sacrifice fly delivered two more runs in the seventh.

Buddy Bradford's seventh home run in the fifth put Chicago ahead 2-0.

Chicago opened the scoring with an unearned run in the third inning. Jeter singled home Luis Alvarado, who had singled and gone all the way to third when Rod Carew dropped Kaat's throw on Brinkman's sacrifice.

Henderson hit his sixth homer in the eighth, while Tony Oliva's 10th home run in the bottom of the frame stopped Bahnsen's shutout bid.

Jockey, Trainer Lists Alter

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

The top ten jockey and trainer standings saw major changes made at the conclusion of the second week of racing at the State Fairgrounds in Lincoln.

Last week's leading jockey and trainer both fell to third place while two jockeys dropped out of the top ten and five dropped out of the top ten trainer standings.

Rodolfo Calderon, last week's leading rider, fell to third while Wayne Anderson leapfrogged over last week's No. 2 rider, Dave King, who maintained his same spot in the standings this week, to the No. 1 spot. Last week, Anderson was in third place.

One of the new additions to the jockey standings was Doug Schoepf who by-passed four slots to claim the No. 6 position. The other new rider is Ed Werre who has taken over the No. 10 slot.

Those who fell from the top ten jockey standings were Ray Hancock (No. 8) and Jim Bazer (No. 9).

Ken Kirby moved up from the No. 2 spot last week in the trainer standings to claim the No. 1 position while last week's leader, John Wolfers fell to the No. 3 spot.

The addition of Larry Staroscif to the No. 2 position marked the biggest leap by anyone making his initial appearance in this year's standings.

C. W. Pierce (No. 5), John Gray (No. 6), and C. B. Murnam and John Martinez (both No. 8) were the other new faces in the trainer standings while Dwight Clum(No. 38), R. D. Ring, Mike Cressy, Barbara Moon, and Wayne Riney, all tied for the No. 5 position, fell out of the picture.

In Tuesday's feature race, Anderson will attempt to add another win to his riding total with Time To Scoot who has drawn 120 pounds topweight along with King Hunza, Open Leaf, Brown Blo, and Artic Bunny for the six furlong dash.

Aunt Priscilla Thinks Luck About To Change

Last week's effort didn't leave me much to crow about, but I think the third week of racing at the State Fairgrounds may just change my luck.

Saturday, I lost $2 on Burgundy Street in the fifth when he finished third and the same amount on Great Pumpkin when he didn't even finish in the money despit being co-holder of the track record over the distance he had to run. That loss dropped my $108 spree fund down to $81.80.

But I notice that that girl jockey Donna Collins is riding Tiny Ruler in the second race Tuesday so I think I'll bet $2 to win on her and another $2 on Savage Hunter in the eighth.

Glover Workout Pleases Giants

WEST LONG BRANCH, N.J. (UPI) — Top draft choice Rich Glover made his first appearance at the New York Giants' training camp Monday and coach Alex Webster, impressed with the newcomer, said the highly-rated middle guard from the University of Nebraska probably would play in next Saturday's exhibition at San Diego.

"The Giants' defense with a middle guard is just right for me," the 6-1, 242-pound Glover said after his initial workout. "Sure, I have a tough job in front of me trying to beat out John Mendenhall. He has experience over me, but I feel that just as soon as I get everything down, I'll have a good chance."

Defensive coordinator Jim Garrett was greatly pleased with Glover's first workout, saying: "He has great quickness and picked up everything very quickly. He'll be a real addition to our ballclub."

"We'll probably use him Saturday night against the Chargers," Webster said. "He impressed me out there today. He looked very strong and I'm sure we'll be able to get him out of some of the habits he's in now."

Boston Beats Reliever Lyle

Boston (AP) — Rick Millers's single with two out in the ninth inning off relief ace Sparky Lyle scored Rico Petrocelli from third base and gave the Boston Red Sox a 4-3 victory over the stumbling New York Yankees Monday night.

The Yankees had tied the score in the top of the ninth against Luis Tiant on a single by Gene Michael and Jim Ray Hart's pinch home run. It was his ninth homer of the baseball season.

Lyle, 4-6 but with 26 saves, replaced starter Fred Beene at the start of the ninth and Petrocelli led off with a single. He took second on a wild pitch and went to third on Doug Griffin's one-out grounder.

Miller then drilled his game-winning hit past second baseman Hal Lanier as the Red Sox downed New York for the ninth time in 11 meetings.

It was the fourth consecutive setback for the Yankees, who started play one game ahead of Baltimore and 3½ in front of Boston and Detroit in the American League's East Division.

Petrocelli drove his 13th home run of the season into the left field screen in the second inning following Orlando Cepeda's leadoff double for a 2-0 Boston lead.

New York loaded the bases with one out in the third on singles by Michael and Matty Alou and a walk to Roy White but managed only one run as Bobby Murcer hit into a force at second. After a walk to Ron Blomberg reloaded the bases, Graig Nettles flied out.

The Red Sox, who had dropped five of their previous six games, picked up their third run in the fifth on Harper's 11th homer.

Tiant, 13-9, allowed only six hits but was in continuous trouble as he walked seven.

Detroit Sweeps Orioles

Baltimore (UPI) — Dick McAuliffe, Duke Sims and Jim Northrup belted home runs Monday night as the Detroit Tigers swept a three-game series from the Baltimore Orioles with a 4-3 nationally-televised victory which gave Mickey Lolich his 10th win of the season.

McAuliffe's ninth homer of the season leading off the second inning snapped a 1-1 tie. Sims ripped his eighth clout opening the fourth inning and Northrup got his sixth homer in the sixth inning, all off loser Jesse Jefferson, 3-3.

Lolich, 10-10, handcuffed the Orioles after getting touched for an first inning run on a single by Merv Rettenmund, a walk, sacrifice and groundout until Andy Etchebarren's two-run homer in the ninth.

Gibson Loses Tenth Game

Chicago (UPI) — The Chicago Cubs hopped on Bob Gibson for four singles and three runs in the first inning Monday and made them stand up for a 3-1 win over the St. Louis Cardinals behind six-hit pitching by Rick Reuschel and Dave Laroche.

It was only the fourth victory in the last 17 games for the Cubs and the sixth loss over the same span for the Cardinals. The win moved the Cubs within 1 1-2 games of the pace-setting Cards in the National League's Eastern Division race.

Gibson, losing for the 10th time against 11 wins, gave up nine hits and had a three-game winning streak broken, while Reuschel, scoring his 11th win against eight losses, broke a three-game losing streak. Laroche, getting the last four outs, earned his fourth save.

Rick Monday singled to open the game for the Cubs, advanced on a walk to Jose Cardenal and scored on Billy Williams' single. Cardenal went to third on Williams' hit and scored on Jim Hickman's infield out. Williams advanced to second on the play and scored on Glenn Beckert's single.

Phillies Topple Pirates

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bob Boone singled home the game's only run in the fourth inning and Steve Carlton made it stand up with a six-hitter, leading the Philadelphia Phillies to a 1-0 decision over the Pittsburgh Pirates Monday night.

Boone's single, one of just five hits surrendered over seven innings by loser Bob Moose, 6-10, scored Greg Luzinski, who had singled and taken second on a walk to Del Unser.

Carlton, struck out ten in boosting his record to 10-11 and issued only one walk and got a big break in the seventh inning.

Glover, Rodgers, Pruitt Honored

Los Angeles (AP) — Former Nebraska players Rich Glover and Johnny Rodgers and Oklahoma's Greg Pruitt were among the athletes inducted Monday into the newly formed Outstanding College Athletes of America Hall of Fame.

No other Big Eight Conference athletes were selected, but UCLA quarterback Mark Harmon was as well as other athletes from around the country for various sports.

The hall was set up as an adjunct of the California Museum of Science and History and is located adjacent to the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Devaney To Get Another Honor

Los Angeles — Nebraska athletic director Bob Devaney, who ended an 11-year coaching stint with the Huskers at the end of last season, Tuesday was named to the Citizens Savings College Football Hall of Fame.

Formerly the Helms Athletic Foundation, the Citizens Savings board named Devaney and former Michigan State coach Duffy Daugherty for induction as coaches into the Hall of Fame.

Eight players also were named: Howard Cassady of Ohio State, Ernie Davis, Syracuse; Lou Michaels, Kentucky; Leo Nomellini, Minnesota; Les Richter, California; Ed Widseth, Minnesota; Al Wistert, Michigan and Alex Wojciechowicz, Fordham.

Former 'Jay Gets Release

OAKLAND (AP) — Bob Portman, a former No. 1 draft choice of the Golden State Warriors, has been released by the National Basketball Association team.

The 6-foot-4 forward had earlier been placed on waivers, Coach Al Attles said Monday, "but there were no takers."

Portman, who played four years with the Warriors, is now free to negotiate with another team in the NBA or American Basketball Association. The former Creighton University star played in only 32 NBA games last season.

White Sox' Hemond Elevated To GM Post

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago White Sox Monday named Roland Hemond, who had been credited with making trades that put the Sox into pennant contention while a personnel manager, to the job of general manager and vice president.

Hemond, Sox' owner John Allyn announced, will assume the post vacated last week by Stu Holcomb in a feud with Hemond and manager Chuck Tanner.

Holcomb retired to his Florida home. Hemond took over his new duties immediately.

In his statement announcing Hemond's promotion, Allyn also said, "I will assume the duties of chief executive officer of the White Sox and will have my officers at the ball park."

Hemond and Tanner have been credited with engineering a series of trades, including the acquisition of slugger Dick Allen, that raised the Sox to pennant contenders. Box office receipts went up accordingly.

The Sox led the American League's West Division early in the season but a series of injuries to key players, including Allen, coincided with the fall to fourth.

Duing that period Holcomb was blamed by some for letting Rick Reichardt and Mike Andrews go because of contract disputes. Their departures compounded the shortage of right-handed hitters created by injuries.

A gradual falling out between Holcomb on the one hand and Hemond and Tanner on the other developed over the handling of contract and personnel matters.

Both Hemond and Tanner had been brought into the Sox organization by Holcomb, who joined the team in September of 1970. In his letter of resignation Holcomb told Allyn "it became obvious to me we were no longer a three-man team."

Hemond had been presumed in line to succeed Holcomb ever since his resignation became known.

Crenshaw Set To Turn Pro

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ben Crenshaw, often compared in style and appearance to Jack Nicklaus, will begin to find out in two weeks just how well he stands up against the master when the money's on the line.

Crenshaw, a three-time NCAA champion, confirmed Monday that he will make his professional debut in the USI (United States Industries) Classic beginning Aug. 16 at Sutton, Mass. The tournament carries a purse of $200,000, with a first prize of $40,000.

"I'm going to play in three professional tournaments — the USI, the Heritage Classic and the World Open," said the blond Texan, who is in New York to be honored as a member of the 1973 All-American College golf team, to which he was named for an unprecedented third consecutive year.

Crenshaw, also named College Golfer of the Year by the NCAA, will complete his stunning amateur career in the Porter Cup at Niagara Falls, N.Y., next week, and has gained exemption to play in three professional tournaments before trying to win his pro card later this year.

"I thought about turning pro last year, but I didn't feel it was the right time," Crenshaw said. "I didn't think my game was ready at the time."

Scholarship Set For Black Youth

NEW YORK (UPI) — A four-year college scholarship, issued in the name of the late Jackie Robinson, will be awarded annually to a black youngster who shows a serious interest in playing golf, it was announced Monday by the All-American Collegiate Golf Foundation.

"This is just an opening to take blacks out of the ranks of caddies and into the ranks of players," said Mrs. Rachel Robinson, widow of the Hall-of-Fame baseball great during a luncheon honoring the All-American College golf team.

Mrs. Robinson revealed that her husband was an avid golfer, but even after he opened the doors of major league baseball to black players, he was denied membership at his local golf club in Stamford, Conn., because of his color.

Market Decline Is Mild

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market ended its two-week rally Monday with a mild decline that analysts said was due primarily to profit taking.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up some 50 points over the past 10 trading sessions, dipped 2.94 to 933.77.

Declines led advances on the New York Stock Exchange 817 to 626 in dull trading. Big Board volume was a meager total of 11.17 million shares.

"It was a perfectly normal consolidation of a very substantial advance," said Newton Zinder, analyst with E. F. Hutton & Co.

Brokers noted that the market had been down a handful of points earlier in the session but showed a firming trend near the close.

The move by major banks to boost their prime lending rate to 8¾ per cent was not unexpected, but it still acted as a market depressant, analysts said.

The broad-based NYSE index fell .18 to 58.18, while the American Stock Exchange index dropped .02 to 23.52.

American Telephone, NYSE volume leader, fell ⅝ to 50¾.

Foote Mineral preferred gained 4¼ to 22½. The company said it would purchase any or all of its outstanding convertible preferred shares at $22 a share.

Texasgulf fell 1⅛ to 25⅞. The company won a temporary court order restraining a $290 million offer for about a third of its stock.

Western Union, which received a negative comment in a recent Barron's Weekly magazine article, was down ¾ to 21¼.

Other prices included Brunswick, up 1 to 24¾; American Airlines, up 1 to 12; and Sonny, off 2¾ to 46.

On the American Stock Exchange, Canadian Javelin, volume leader, dropped 1 to 12⅛.

Other movers included Valmac up 3⅛ to 21; Herff Jones, up 5⅞ to 13⅜; and Houston Oil & Mineral, up 3 to 36.

In Over-the-Counter trading, the NASDAQ composite index fell .48 to 108.88.

Board Accepts Counties' Valuations

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

The State Board of Equalization Monday accepted the property valuations submitted by Nebraska's 93 counties and thereby continued its recent policy of not challenging valuations assessed lower than the statutory level.

The total valuations for 1973 came to $17 billion; last year's valuations totaled $16 billion.

Wilber Houtchens, head of the Department of Revenue's property tax division, attributed the "slight" increase to reappraisals in Johnson, Knox, Nemaha, Stanton, Pierce and Thayer counties and improvements and new personal property statewide.

Despite the increase, Houtchens noted that the average level that real estate and personal property were assessed fell from last year's 29% level to 26%. The individual counties assessed their property at ratios ranging from 18% to 31%. By law all property is supposed to be assessed at a uniform 35%.

However, the board has abandoned efforts to mandate increases in the valuations since 1969 when the State Supreme Court reversed increases ordered by the board.

The five-man board, chaired by Gov. J. James Exon, accepted the valuations without any debate despite a valuation submitted by Hitchcock County which was inexplicably $2 million lower than its 1972 figure.

The widening gap between the actual rate of assessment and the legal requirement is presently being challenged in a Lancaster County court test.

The board also rejected an attempt by the Chicago & North Western Transportation Co. to cut its assessed valuation on rail terminals from $2.2 million to $286,471.

Jerome Conlon, director of taxation for the firm, maintained that the decreased valuations were not intended to "rip-off" the counties but reflected the value of its terminals after the firm was sold to its 1,000 employes last year.

The lower valuation was protested by Sheridan County Atty. Mike Smith who told the board that his county would lose $1,400 in revenue if the values of the rail terminals were lowered.

"That's a 95.5% reduction," Smith said. "If that's the property's value, then we'll buy anything they want to sell."

The Washington County assessor told the board the lower valuation would assess 13.1 acreas in Blair at $1,796.

The board in other action raised the rate of capitalization for the railroads and the franchise assessment on utilities from 7½% to 8%.

Community Participation Urged In Helping Retarded

By JIM PRATT
Star Staff Writer

Agencies serving the mentally retarded should encourage community participation and allow other interested community agencies serving non-retarded persons to pitch in and help, too, according to a report presented to the Region V Mental Retardation Service Board Monday night.

Arthur Bolton, of the consulting firm of Arthur Bolton Associates, told board members that may be "the most important recommendation in the entire report."

The report is a product of a three-month study of the quality and quantity of services provided for the mentally retarded in the Region V 14-county area in southeastern Nebraska.

Other findings and recommendations of the report include:

—The Region V Office should offer technical assistance in program development and manpower training to all agencies serving the retarded, but should not operate direct service programs (with the exception of case management services).

—Besides planning and administrative functions, the office should coordinate services for the retarded in the 14-county area by operating a case management and follow-along services.

—The office should manage program placements and contract for services for retarded individuals.

—The purchasing of services for individual retarded persons should replace the dividing of money among agencies so that the retarded are not at the mercy of agency budgeting.

—The office should install a benefit cost-reporting and analysis system because records of these are poor.

—Provide options to families of the retarded to designate the office as guardian of the retarded person if desired.

—Reconstitute the Region V board so that it better represents the general community instead of specific agencies dealing with the retarded and to eliminate potential conflicts of interests.

—The office should work with health services in the region to improve preventive and early case-finding programs and to gain a better understanding of the causes of retardation.

Bolton also said his study group found it depends more on family income whether a retarded person lives in an institution, the community or the family home, rather than on the degree of retardedness.

Also, more adults than expected are living in the Beatrice State Home, possibly because of a lack of decent guardianship programs in Nebraska, Bolton said.

The study also found no correlation between the degree of retardation and where the retarded live. There are significant numbers of mildly and moderately retarded living in institutions, perhaps too many, Bolton said.

Not only that, but the study found a greater-than-expected number of mildly and moderately retarded persons being served and fewer than expected severely retarded persons being served.

This tends to show that the more handicapped are underserved when compared to the less handicapped, Bolton explained.

Not all was gloomy, Bolton said. The past two years have witnessed "very positive developments" in care for the retarded, he said.

Canadians Reported Buying Cattle In Omaha, Iowa For U.S. Resale

AMES, Iowa (AP)—Canadian meat packers are buying cattle on markets in Iowa and Nebraska for slaughter and processing in Canada and eventual resale in the United States, says the Iowa Cattlemen's Association.

Larry Kallem, executive vice president of the association, said Canadian packers have made cattle purchases at markets in Sioux City and Omaha, Neb.

He said sources indicated that 18 carloads of cattle were purchased Monday between the Omaha and Sioux City stockyards by the packers, who plan more purchases later this week.

Kallem said the Canadian packers can make a profit because meat imports to the Unites States aren't controlled by the price ceiling that affects domestic beef. He added that the practice is entirely legal.

Kallem said he believes most of the beef is destined for the East Coast, where it can be sold duty free for a carcass price of 97.5 cents per pound— 24 cents a pound more than a domestic packer could ask under the present price ceilings.

Federal price controls on the retail sale of beef won't be lifted until Sept. 12.

At Sioux City, market officials said buyers from Ontario, Canada, purchased about 375 head of cattle Monday. An additional 150 head were reportedly purchased by Canadian packers at Omaha.

Officials at the Sioux City and Omaha markets said the Canadian packers have purchased cattle at the markets before, but usually in the fall when prices are traditionally lower.

Choice slaughter cattle sold at $50 to $52 a hundredweight Monday at the two markets.

Gas Allocation Plan Is Deteriorating—Love

WASHINGTON (AP) — John A. Love, White House energy chief, said Monday that oil company compliance with the voluntary petroleum allocation program has deteriorated noticeably in the past three weeks.

Love said he hopes to announce a decision this week on whether the program will be replaced with a mandatory system.

Love, former governor of Colorado and now director of the President's energy policy office, told the House banking subcommittee that no decision on a mandatory program has been made yet.

"There has been a noticeable deterioration in the compliance of most oil companies in the past two or three weeks," Love said. "Some companies have given formal notice that they do not intend to comply further with the volunary petroleum allocation program."

Since mid-June hearings which revealed that some companies were not complying with the guidelines, Love said that several major oil companies have notified his office they can no longer comply.

He said companies such as Sunoco, Phillips, Cities Service and Gulf had delayed plans to withdraw from various marketing areas in order to comply with the various allocation plans.

But they have recently notified him, he said, "They will continue to withdraw unless mandatory provisions are imposed."

Of the 2,646 cases of fuel shortages the energy office is reviewing, 17 pertain to mass transit.

He said active cases are increasing at the rate of 235 a week. The complaints are divided into three broad areas—marketers without ample supplies of gasoline, purchasers of bulk wholesale quantities who are complaining about price hikes and agricultural producers.

Love said he is still weighing the options now open including retaining a revised voluntary allocation program, adopting a half mandatory and halt voluntary program or adopting a fully mandatory system for all of the industry.

In answer to questions, Love said he did not believe the oil companies had conspired to restrict supplies or raise prices.

"I am convinced the dimensions of the energy problem far exceed anything the oil companies did or did not do," Love said, and added that the problems stem partly from a growing consumer consumption and a fall-off of energy production.

"If people see the problem as some sort of plot they will fail to see the real dimensions of the energy situation," Love said.

He said even if the Alaska Oil Pipeine is built, he doubts that oil imports can be reduced because the demand is growing so strongly.

Nebraska Trio Against Pay Bill

Washington (AP) — The House refused, 237-156, to consider a bill changing the timing of automatic pay adjustments for congressmen and other officials. Nebraska's three Republican representatives, John Y. McCollister, Dave Martin and Charles Thone, all voted against the bill.

Stennis Discharged

Washington (UPI) — Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., wounded by gunfire in January, was formally discharged from the Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

Unless you mean business . . . We are now considering qualified applicants in your area to become a working part of our National "Hot Food" Distributor System. You are not applying for a job! You are applying for a very high profit business of your own. NO EXPERIENCE NECESSARY — NO SELLING INVOLVED. This business can be started part time — no need to quit your job. Can be expanded full time with company financing. We need people we can depend on. Our products are nationally famous "Hot Food" items made by Heinz. We have over 36 varieties of Hot Soups and Hot Entrees, such as Beef Stew, Chicken & Dumplings, Chili & Beans, and on and on. We have all of America's favorites. All these delicious products are sold from the latest in automatic vending equipment. Your route will be established and installed by us. Your age is not a factor, if you quality. Perfect for a nice couple to operate as a family business.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 7-31
